Racial Clash Fatal

LEXINGTON, N.C. (AP) —A white man was killed and another was wounded here Thursday night during racial flare-ups. See Page 3.

The two men were shot as a cordon of police kept whites and Negroes separated on a side street.

PHOTOGRAPHER HIT

The shooting came after a group of Negroes unsuccessfully sought service at several downtown establishments and a crowd of whites gathered. Officers said there were minor clashes between the two groups.

NEAR CHURCH

The shooting occurred on a side street near a Negro church. The two groups were being kept apart by officers when several shots, apparently from a .22-calibre rifle, were fired from the direction of the Negroes, police said.

Richardson, who was standing beside a policeman, was hit in the back, the bullet passing through his liver.

STANDING NEARBY

Another shot hit Link, who was standing nearby, in the head. He was taken first to Lexington Memorial Hospital but died en route to Baptist Hospital in Winston-Salem 25 miles away.

Officers said the Negroes appeared downtown and attempted to receive service at a theatre and bowling alley but were refused. However, they were served ice cream at a drug store.

The whites gathered and minor clashes broke out.

B.C. Aid Slow Starting

. . . I don't recall

By TERRY HAMMOND
Colonist Legislative Reporter

Ever wonder what happened to the Premier's Committee for World Relief and the British Columbia World Relief Fund?

Well, if you were one of the 1,800,000,000 hungry people in the world in 1960 when these two agencies came into being you'd know—you'd still be hungry.

Like the B.C. Highway Safety Advisory Committee which hasn't met for two or three years, the accomplishments of the Premier's Committee for World Relief are modest.

* * *

Premier Bennett announced the committee at a time when he was under editorial fire for having failed to respond to a federal pilot plan to bring 100 tubercular immigrant families to Canada from European refugee camps.

He had refused to open the door to the eight families which would have been B.C.'s share.

He berated the federal government for what he termed a token gesture to the refugees and said B.C. would take its share if the number was increased to 1,000 tubercular families.

Then he proposed a federal-provincial conference on the subject with the remark that provinces are called in "for talks on gopher poisons . . . why not a conference on this great problem?"

Japan to Upset Fisheries?

WASHINGTON (CP)—Japan threatened Thursday to upset Canada-United States fisheries in the North Pacific by demanding a more relaxed conservation program that would give the expanding Japanese fleet greater access to the halibut, salmon, herring and other fish that abound in the high seas off the North American shelf.

While Canada and the U.S. pleaded for retention of an existing 10-year fisheries convention under which Japan agrees to abstain from fishing in certain areas, Japan's deputy agriculture minister, Masayoshi Ito, called for termination of the convention and scrapping of the abstention formula.

FORMULA POINTS

Under this formula, Japan agrees not to fish for salmon in the eastern parts of the Pacific Ocean and to abstain from taking halibut and herring unless a known area is not already exploited by Canadian and American fishermen.

Japan recently was allowed to exploit halibut in the eastern Bering Sea and herring off the Queen Charlotte Islands of British Columbia.

STIFF ATTITUDE

Canadian Fisheries Minister Robichaud who had called for retention of the existing abstentions told a press conference later the initial Japanese attitude was "very stiff."

U.S. Interior Secretary Stewart Udall warned Japan that the U.S. considers the abstention clause an absolute essential and that great frictions might emerge if the convention is abandoned.

Robichaud was asked at the press conference whether the Soviet Union could be brought into the North Pacific Fisheries Conservation Convention to offset Japanese complaints that the Russians are not bound by any form of abstention.

He said he didn't believe negotiations with the Russians would prove satisfactory at this stage.

Canadians Going Deeper in Debt

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadians are consistent in at least one respect: They're still going deeper and deeper in debt.

Credit statistics released Thursday show Canadians now owe about 3½ times as much to the banks in the form of personal unsecured loans as they did in 1954.

Debts to department stores—on both charge and instalment accounts—have doubled in that period.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics estimates that the over-all amount outstanding in various kinds of consumer credit reached $3,664,000,000 at March 31, a rise of $301,000,000 in one year.

Canada Makes It Official

WASHINGTON (CP) — Fisheries Minister Robichaud Thursday advised the United States that Canada's 'decision to extend her existing three-mile coastal fisheries boundary to 12 miles next year will not affect the historic or traditional U.S. pattern of fishing in Canadian waters.

* * *

He said also that he plans to amend Canadian fisheries regulations, probably next Monday, to allow Canadian draggers which currently cannot fish within 12 miles off Canadian shores to move in as close as three miles offshore.

Hot Line Circuit Nearer Reality

GENEVA (AP)—U.S. and Soviet communications experts have reached full technical agreement on a hot line teletype circuit intended to prevent accidental war, it was disclosed Thursday.

The agreement has been accepted by the U.S. government and only Soviet government approval is still needed to start technical work on the unprecedented link.

The U.S. and Soviet delegates at the 17-nation disarmament conference and technicians from both sides put the final touches to the agreement at a two-hour meeting Tuesday.

* * *

U.S. Ambassador Charles C. Stelle and Soviet delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin, co-chairmen of the conference, will give the other delegations formal notice of their agreement as soon as Tsarapkin receives the go-ahead from Moscow.

They agreed existing telecommunications facilities should be used for the hot line, including an underwater trans-Atlantic cable betwen the United States and Britain. The use of existing cables could allow the circuit to go into operation in a matter of weeks, officials said.

* * *

The line will pass from London through Stockholm and Helsinki to Moscow. The British, Swedish and Finnish governments will be asked to provide the circuits but they will have no right to use the hot line.

Communications on the hot line will be in a special code either converted into either Russian or English. The signals will be scrambled to prevent eavesdropping. The United States and the Soviet Union will share the cost of operating and maintaining the line.

The circuit will be kept in permanent readiness and test transmissions will be made daily to make sure it is in working order.

Grits Bypass House

OTTAWA (CP)—Former prime minister Diefenbaker said in the Commons Thursday night the new Liberal government decided to arm Canada's air forces in Europe "with offensive weapons" without consulting Parliament.

He said the decision was mad before the NATO ministerial meeting last month in Ottawa and was then confirmed at the NATO meeting.

Mr. Diefenbaker, speaking as the Commons defence debate appeared to be nearing an end, apparently used the term "offensive weapons" on the basis of reports that Canada's CF-104 jet bombers would be armed with one-megaton nuclear bombs.

FROM THORSON

He said the source of this information is Mr. Justice J. T. Thorson, president of the Exchequer Court of Canada and an outspoken opponent of nuclear weapons for Canadian forces. Mr. Justice Thorson "was not far removed from the ear of the Liberal party."

The Conservative leader also challenged Prime Minister Pearson to say whether the United States is trying to store air-to-air missiles on U.S.-leased bases in Canada and whether negotiations to this end are under way.

RIGHT TO KNOW

Canadian people had a right to know whether Canada's defence responsibilities had been intensified in recent weeks by the "coming and goings" between Washington and Ottawa.

Mr. Diefenbaker contended that Canada should not be required to contribute more to NATO than it already is doing. No other country, except the United States, has contributed

Discussions Exploratory

OTTAWA (CP) — The government issued a non-committal statement Thursday night on its discussions with special American envoy Livingston Merchant on a proposed NATO seaborne strategic nuclear force.

The statement said: "These conversations were exploratory only. No commitments of any sort were involved."

Pope John Buried In Basilica

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Roman Catholic Church buried Pope John XXIII, the peasant's son who gave Christendom a new urge for unity and love, in St. Peter's Basilica Thursday night. See also Page 3.

The private ceremony came after two days of public viewing of the body, which the Vatican said drew 2,000,000 mourners.

To give a glimpse to those in St. Peter's Square who could not get in, the body was borne briefly from the basilica just before the burial.

TRIPLE COFFIN

The 81-year-old pontiff was laid to rest in a triple coffin of walnut, lead and cypress in a grotto he himself selected two years ago.

However, his last will and testament, disclosed by the Vatican press office Thursday, expressed hope that his remains eventually would be transferred to the Lateran Palace adjoining the cathedral of St. John Lateran, his see as bishop of Rome.

Clean Up Vernon

Army Will Search For Vintage Bombs

VERNON (CP) — The army will conduct a full-scale search for Second World War vintage bombs this fall in the Vernon area where two Scouts met death in a mortar-bomb explosion in March, it was announced today.

The announcement was made by Brig. E. D. Danby, commanding officer of B.C. headquarters area of the army, to Mayor Bruce Cousins following discovery of yet another high-explosive bomb.

The latest find was made Tuesday night by Vernon prep school teacher Douglas Bulwer on the edge of nearby Coldstream Creek while on a hike with his class. Army demolition experts said the bomb was still live and could have blown up if struck.

The brigadier also said a team of army officers will start this week a series of lectures in Vernon and district schools on bombs, their construction and how to detect them. Students would be shown some of the bombs found in the area.

Warning "proceed at your own risk" signs informing the public of the former training areas also would be erected.

He'll Meet Mac

Under heavy British urging, President Kennedy was reported Thursday night to have decided to meet with Prime Minister Macmillan at the end of this month during Kennedy's European trip. Announcement is expected to be made within the next few days.

Taxes Could Go Up or Down

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Gordon will deliver his budget speech in the Commons Thursday, June 13.

* * *

Canadians then will find out how he proposes to fit Liberal government economic programs into what — barring major tax increases — seems bound to be another budgetary deficit.

As already announced, government spending estimates for the current fiscal year are up five per cent to $6,545,504,515. This is millions more than the expanding economy will produce in tax yields at present rates.

The Canadian Tax Foundation already has predicted a 1963-64 deficit of at least $600,000,000. This would follow hard on the heels of a 1962-63 deficit expected to be around $570,000,000.

There is even a chance of taxes going up. Prime Minister Pearson said at one point during the election campaign.

* * *

"There might have to be decisions taken in the field of taxation with a view to putting our affairs in order, in view of the unbalanced state of our economy, which would not make a government very popular in the short term.

* * *

"It might also be possible, and this is the reverse side of the coin, to cut taxes in certain fields in certain economic situations for the stimulation of the economy."

A-Arms Supported By Anglican Synod

ARCHBISHOP CLARK
. . . opposed by Synod

TORONTO (UPI) — Anglican clergymen Thursday supported nuclear weapons for Canada's armed forces.

The stand was in direct opposition to that taken by the Anglican primate of Canada, Most Rev. Howard Clark, who favored equipping Canadian forces with conventional weapons only.

* * *

Delegates to the Toronto diocesan synod overwhelmingly voted down a resolution by Rev. J. E. Adam of Peterborough similar to that proposed by the primate.

Adam originally suggested that the synod endorse the primate's anti-nuclear stand, but later changed the wording to read—"To save anyone the embarrassment of seeming at odds with the primate."

Scandal Not Ended in U.K.

LONDON (AP)—The turbulent love life of a beautiful redhead rocked Prime Minister Macmillan and his government Thursday. There were demands for yet another investigation of Britain's security services.

* * *

The storm centred on War Minister John Profumo who resigned Wednesday, admitting he lied when he said he had not had improper relations with model Christine Keeler, 22.

Miss Keeler's roommate said Thursday that often when Profumo went out the apartment door, a Soviet naval attache walked in.

Lord Lambton, a Conservative MP, said he had twice warned authorities of Profumo's association with Miss Keeler. Writing in the Evening Standard, Lambton said Profumo's sensational resignation as war secretary will not end the story.

* * *

Lambton's title is only a courtesy given him as the son of the Earl of Durham. He is not a peer and consequently is eligible to sit in the Commons from which peers are barred.

Labor Party Leader Harold Wilson served notice that his party will press "for the full facts."

* * *

It seemed certain Macmillan will face considerable criticism from within his own Conservative party.

Profumo resigned in a letter confessing that he lied to the House of Commons to cover his illicit association with Miss Keeler.

The Russian on Christine's visiting list was Capt. Eugene Ivanov, an assistant naval attache who played the social circuit so cheerfully that Labor party politicians warned security about him.

* * *

Marilyn Rice Davies, an 18-year-old girl who shared a West End apartment with Christine, says in The Daily Sketch that she had been questioned by Scotland Yard men about what went on there.

"And the farcical thing about it all was that—on more than one occasion—as Jack (Profumo) left Christine at the flat, Eugene Ivanov, the handsome young Russian naval attache, walked in."

He has since been called home to Moscow.

* * *

The Jamaican, Aloysius Lin-

Hungry Still Wait

When the editorial attacks continued he announced on April 8, 1960 that his government was prepared to spend "hundreds of thousands of dollars" on a program for free distribution of B.C. foodstuffs to the world's under-privileged.

★ ★ ★

The premier then berated the federal tubercular refugee plan again and this time added, "my government feels strongly that we have a far greater responsibility to the undernourished and underprivileged millions of the world."

He said it was "almost criminal" that Canada was stockpiling wheat when "there is actual starvation in other parts of the world."

He called a special press conference to announce a $50,000 provincial grant and a $950,000 matching-grant formula to feed the hungry people of the world.

B.C. would immediately put up $50,000 and would match dollar for dollar public contributions to a total of $475,000.

"This should only be a start," said the premier.

He appointed Health Minister Eric Martin as chairman of the committee and Provincial Secretary Wesley Black and Dr. Hugh Keenleyside as members.

★ ★ ★

On May 4, 1960, the program was in high gear and Health Minister Martin announced "we are now in business and ready to make a real contribution to the millions of hungry people in the world."

The millions of hungry people of the world waited.

Yesterday, some three years later, they were still waiting.

The $50,000 was safe in the provincial treasury.

So, apparently, was the $420.83 contributed by the few private donors who were sufficiently aware of the fund to get out their chequebooks.

★ ★ ★

Asked yesterday when the last meeting of the Premier's Committee for World Relief was held, Mr. Black the only one of the trio available, replied, "Gee, I don't recall."

Had there been a meeting this year?

"We might have met" Mr. Black replied hesitatingly.

He couldn't recall, for the record, how many meetings had been held since the committee's formation in 1960.

★ ★ ★

How many meetings had there been?

"Three formal and several informal," Mr. Martin replied.

One year earlier, asked the same question in the House, he had replied, "three formal, several informal."

Officials yesterday were reluctant to speculate on what is holding up distribution of the British Columbia World Relief Fund.

But a paragraph in a 1961 column on the subject by Vancouver Province writer Paddy Sherman may shed a clue.

"A lot of people who were starving a year ago presumably didn't make it through our election and into 1961," he wrote.

Your Good Health

No Need to Worry About Moles— They're Common

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: I am getting a few moles on my back and stomach. Am I lacking in some vitamins, or what? I hope you can tell me what is causing them and what to do.—Mrs. E. W.

Moles are little growths that occur more often in some skins than in others. They tend to appear as we become older. They don't mean that anything is wrong with the diet. In fact, there is nothing you can do to prevent moles. If you happen to have the kind of skin that develops them.

It has been said that everybody has at least one mole and usually more, although some may not be big or dark enough to be noticed.

Brunettes have more than blondes.

If a mole is in an area that is subject to irritation, such as at the edge of a brassiere, girdle or belt line, or where it is scraped by a razor, and more especially if it shows any sign of irritation or of changing size or color, call it to your doctor's attention. It may be best to have it removed before it can bring the risk of serious trouble.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is the difference between sugar and honey? Can diabetics use the latter? How many calories does it contain? Do you have a booklet on diabetes?—K. B.

Honey is mostly sugar, a slightly different form but that makes no difference as far as diabetes is concerned. It's still sugar, and hence about the same in calories—1,800 calories to the pound for table sugar: 1,500 calories to the pound for honey.

Dear Dr. Molner: My doctor has prescribed quinidine to keep my heart from racing. I have taken the tablets for two years and am much better. Is it safe to continue with them? I have been told they are harmless. I am 77.—R. S.

Quinidine is very useful for that purpose. It is not exactly "harmless," and I say this more for the benefit of others than for you, as this drug can be continued over long periods if used properly. You evidently have learned when and how to take it and if it disagreed with you you would have had signs before now. Therefore continue to follow your doctor's advice. There is no drug — not even aspirin — that is absolutely harmless unless when used properly.

Dear Dr. Molner: Some people have been told by their doctors not to add cream to coffee. Is this advice general? What is the physical effect of cream when added to coffee?—E. C.

Cream is high in calories and high in fat, hence it might be restricted for a person who is trying to lose weight or to control the cholesterol level. Other than that, it has no physical effect when taken in coffee.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is pharyngitis? What causes it? Does heavy cigar smoking irritate it?—Mrs. H. H.

The back of the throat is called the pharynx; inflammation of it is "pharyngitis." Causes include strep or virus infections, draining from sinuses, sometimes allergy. Heavy smoking of any kind can cause and will certainly prolong the trouble.

Miss Keeler became hysterical when Gordon told the judge she had been a call girl since she was 17. He also said he helped her get marijuana.

★ ★ ★

"Why don't you shut him up," she screamed.

Lord Lambton implied in his Evening Standard article that in the Profumo affair Macmillan had been too slow to act.

The rumors connecting Profumo with the girl, and the girl with the Russian, were flying more than a year ago and had even reached official Washington, he wrote.

Profumo is due back in London Tuesday—at Buckingham Palace. It is customary, though not obligatory, for outgoing secretaries of state to hand over their seals of office to the sovereign.

★ ★ ★

"It is expected the Quen will receive the late secretary of state for war upon his resignation Tuesday morning."

Cleaning Halts at Mid-Rug

Coupon Won Couple Two-Tone Carpet

A couple who filled out a coupon for a free prize at the recent Victoria Exhibition now have a half-clean rug because they wouldn't buy a $269 vacuuming machine.

William Tindall, manager of the Vancouver Island Better Business Bureau, last night said a couple of men recently came to the house of the people who had filled out the coupon and said they had won a free cleaning for a rug or upholstered chair.

"When they got halfway through vacuuming the rug they sat down and said they would finish it if the couple would buy the vacuuming machine.

"The couple repeated previous statements they were not interested in buying anything—so the men packed up and left.

Funeral services will be held today for the woman who owned one of the first cars in Victoria, Miss Blanche Richards, 83, who died here Monday.

She was born in Victoria and spent all her life here, except for two years in Vancouver. She was a member of Metropolitan United Church for 52 years. Her father, the late F. G. Richards, was sheriff of Victoria for many years, and built the Clarence Hotel on the corner of Douglas and Yates where the Bank of Nova Scotia now stands.

Surviving are a sister-in-law, Mrs. Bert Richards of Phoenix, Ore., and several cousins.

Attorney-General Bonner will address delegates Monday and E. D. MacPhee, dean emeritus of the University of B.C. faculty of commerce and business administration, will speak Tuesday on Canada's interest in the European Common Market.

Major Gets Post In Ottawa

Maj. S. H. Sheard of Victoria has been appointed to the directorate of cataloguing and equipment requirements at army headquarters in Ottawa, the defence department announced Thursday.

Maj. Sheard, son of Mrs. F. E. Sheard, 1163 Fort, recently returned from a tour of duty in the Congo, where he was attached to the 57 Canadian Signal unit with the United Nations forces.

as much as Canada, in terms of population, he said.

Earlier in his speech, Mr. Diefenbaker said the Liberal government's claim that its placing emphasis on conventional forces for NATO is "a sinuous disregard of the facts."

Mr. Diefenbaker was referring to a statement made by Prime Minister Pearson in the Commons a few hours earlier that the government's position is "to emphasize the importance of conventional defence for NATO."

"This, to me," said the former Conservative prime minister, "is a most surprising statement, a statement that cannot be made to fit the suggestions made by the prime minister both during and since the election campaign."

He contrasted the new emphasis on conventional forces with the Liberal "commitment" to arm Canadian CF-104 low-level bombers in Europe with nuclear bombs in the NATO inter-allied nuclear force.

"I should like to know how that statement can be made to coincide with the undertaking, apparently entered into by this government, to supply our air force in Europe with bombs of an explosive power of 1,000,000,000 tons of TNT."

Such an explosive power, he said, indicated the weapons were not defensive but are "aggressive and potentially aggressive in effect."

Mr. Diefenbaker said he wants to hear how nuclear proponents in Canada explain "the somersault turned by the prime minister in this regard."

Mr. Diefenbaker said the apparent contradiction in Liberal defence concepts indicates a need for the fullest discussion in the 24-member Commons defence committee. He spoke as debate continued on the government motion to set up the committee.

He said he has been waiting since Parliament opened for the Liberals to prove that the previous government made a "commitment" to acquire nuclear weapons, as claimed during the election campaign.

FOUND NOTHING

"They have snooped, they searched, they have sought and they have found nothing."

In a speech frequently applauded by Conservative backbenchers, Mr. Diefenbaker said the opposition will continue to ask questions about defence policy in the Commons—even while the defence committee is in session. Opposition MPs would not allow themselves to be "hamstrung" by the defence committee.

H. W. Herridge (NDP—Kootenay West) said some of the military men in NATO have a record of support of the Nazi regime in Germany and should be opposed by democratic supporters.

He also charged that some Canadian Air Force officers stationed at NORAD headquarters at Colorado Springs, Colo., participated in the Canadian election campaign in support of the acquisition of nuclear weapons by Canada.

Mr. Herridge said the editors of some 100 weekly newspapers went to the NORAD headquarters and were brainwashed by NORAD officers.

"When they are saying that the government of Canada is wrong and the Liberal party is right, I think that is campaigning," he said.

Tourist Industry Needs Off-Season Promotion

Promotion of off-season attractions to lure more visitors is the "greatest need" of the tourist industry in Greater Victoria, Mayor R. B. Wilson said Thursday.

"We should spread out our tourist season rather than just concentrate it in two summer months," he told the finance committee.

The mayor suggested that for a start Greater Victoria should concentrate on promotion of the daffodil season around Easter as something "unique in western Canada."

BIG IMPRESSION

The fresh spring flowers distributed by Ald. Cecil Parrott, city representative on a recent goodwill tour to the Prairies, created a "tremendous impression," he added.

"I suggest that we give serious thought to a Daffodil Festival which would encourage many Prairie people to come and enjoy our balmy spring," said Mayor Wilson.

Responsibility for organizing the festival could be left in the hands of Greater Victoria Celebrations Association, the committee was told. The city should be willing to make an additional grant if such is the case, the mayor said.

HOTELS PRAISED

Ald. Curtis agreed with the mayor's proposal and added that a festival marking the daffodil harvest could be held in conjunction with the already-established garden festival.

Earlier Mayor Wilson praised 14 hotels which pledged $4,000 to Victoria Visitors Bureau. The presentation was made by Victoria Hotel Association president Mrs. Norma Macdonald. She said the group has hopes of raising a further contribution later in the year and would support the bureau in future years.

The mayor said the hotels had given a strong lead to the industry.

CONFIDENCE VOTE

"This pledge is a wonderful expression of confidence by the hotel industry and it should set an example to other business groups that benefit from tourism," he said.

Bureau manager William Hawkins said he hoped the new source of income from private enterprise would grow so that the bureau could expand its promotional work.

Stamps Mark Pope's Death

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The Vatican post office is issuing special commemorative stamped envelopes postmarked with the date and time of death of Pope John XXIII.

Congolese Kill Belgian

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (AP)—A Belgian, suspected by central Congolese soldiers of being one of Katangan President Moise Tshombe's white mercenary troops, was murdered in the Katangan copper centre of Kolwezi, reports reaching here Thursday said.

The reports said the murdered man, M. Renouprez, was arrested by Congolese soldiers Monday. His body was found outside their camp the next day, the reports said.

They added that an African was killed during a shooting rampage by the soldiers, and several European families in cars were fired on or beaten up.

The shooting began after Katangan police had tried to break up a fight among some Congolese soldiers in a bar who were quarreling over a girl.

When the police arrived they were disarmed by the soldiers, who retreated to their camp and started spraying the area with bullets.

Reds Want Bonn Aide

Sank His Own Ship

Sailor Pulled Plug

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Coast Guard said Thursday a 21-year-old sailor confessed he opened a valve that caused his own ship, the 205-foot cutter Tamaron, to capsize and sink with 40 men aboard while it was being overhauled in drydock.

"He has not said why he opened the valves," a Coast Guard spokesman said. "He said he did not realize the seriousness of his act."

The Tamaron, which was commissioned the USS Zuni during the Second World War and won the Legion of Merit, battle stars and citations in the Pacific, keeled over on the port side and sank March 14.

"The board is now determining what charges, if any, to bring," the spokesman said.

LONDON (AP)—Britain Thursday announced plans for building its first all-British satellite. The office of the minister for science announced that a government contract had been awarded for the development and construction of a satellite.

Judge's Injunction

Race Protests Barred

JACKSON, Miss (UPI) — A state judge Thursday issued a temporary injunction to halt — possibly for three months — a series of racial demonstrations which have resulted in 617 arrests during the past 10 days.

Chancery Judge J. C. Stennett made the order returnable Sept. 9 at which time he said he would schedule a hearing to determine whether the injuction should be made permanent.

CITY'S REQUEST

Stennett granted the temporary order on the request of the city which said the demonstrations could cause violence resulting in loss of life and property.

Attorneys for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People were expected to announce today whether they would challenge the injunction in a higher court.

STUDENT AT CLASSES

At Oxford, Cleve McDowell attended his first class at the University of Mississippi without incident Thursday and later walked the campus with James H. Meredith — the Negro who initially crashed the school's racial barriers.

In contrast to the rioting that greeted Meredith, McDowell was calmly enrolled Wednesday and the 80 other students in his legal history class barely took notice of him Thursday morning, although he was 15 minutes late.

ENROLMENTS SET

Meanwhile, University of Alabama officials, following a conference with a federal judge, announced two Negroes will be registered at the Tuscaloosa campus Tuesday and one at Huntsville Thursday. All were to have enrolled Monday.

Gov. George C. Wallace has said he will defy a federal court order barring him from interfering with the enrolments, and a high government source in Washington countered that Wallace can expect federal troops if he attempts any physical defiance.

Police cleared the streets to prevent violence.

Leaders Nabbed

Iran Smashes Rebel Plot

CP from AP-Reuters

TEHRAN, Iran—Premier Asadullah Alam said Thursday the government has smashed a new plot aimed at toppling Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi by sabotaging Tehran's vital utilities and educational institutions.

While martial law preserved an uneasy calm following riots in which the death toll has been announced as at least 86, the premier told listeners in a country - wide broadcast that plot leaders had been arrested and would be tried.

GUNFIRE NEAR PALACE

Two newspapers reported gunfire near the summer palace outside the city where the Shah and his family took shelter.

There were sporadic incidents of violence, but nothing like the rioting Wednesday. The government announced Thursday that at least 86 persons were killed and 193 injured in the Wednesday-Thursday riots.

PROTEST REFORMS

The toll included 14 dead in the Moslem holy city of Qum to the south and two dead and 15 injured in Tehran, the capital. The latter occurred Thursday when troops and police fired on demonstrators rioting against government social and land reforms.

Rioters were protesting the Shah's program endorsed by an over - whelming majority of Iranians, for distributing land to poor peasants.

MOB ATTACKS STATION

Troops closed off small areas around government buildings after troops had to fire in the air to repel a mob attacking the radio station for the third consecutive day. Such mobs, recruited in the bazaars, are available to anyone who can pay them.

Knots of them made ineffectual attacks against three telephone exchanges Thursday.

SHAH SAFE

The Shah, whose program of taking land away from wealthy landlords including the Moslem Church touched off the rioting, was reported safe at his Saadabad summer palace. The newspapers Kayhan and Ettelaat reported some gunfire in a neighboring village. Officials said he and Queen Farah with their two children drove there, six miles north of the city, at the height of Wednesday's violence.

Test of Honesty

IT WILL HAVE struck many people as logical that if as the Liberals have continuously charged the Diefenbaker government had in fact a commitment to acquire nuclear arms the Pearson administration should not have to negotiate and sign a new agreement on the subject with the United States.

It should be able simply to pick up where, according to the Liberals, the Diefenbaker regime left off.

There is the promise of some final assessment as to the truth of the matter; but only if the Pearson government plays fair. The Commons has authorized that all documents and correspondence bearing on such commitment, covering the period of the former government's tenure of office, be tabled for the scrutiny of Parliament. The external affairs minister, however, Mr. Paul Martin, has added a rider that could prejudice the situation. He will consider whether a summary or extracts from classified documents, which he says contain the alleged commitment, should be produced.

Mr. Diefenbaker has rightly objected to the editing of this material at the discretion of Mr. Martin. It should be all or nothing. Extracts taken out of context could easily convey an inference which would be suspect since these would be chosen to support the Liberal contention. Shades of language in edited form that do not tell the whole story could suggest what in fact was never concluded.

And if Mr. Martin is surprised that the former prime minister should ask for the complete classified (security) data to be produced, he is doubly dubious in suggesting that he pick the pieces to be revealed.

Production of these documents as required now by Parliament will be a test of political honesty for the Pearson government, which won office on the cornerstone of the nuclear issue and the alleged commitment in question.

The Profumo Case

FORMER BRITISH War Minister John Profumo today stands condemned in the eyes of his own people not so much because of his admitted involvement in a grave social blunder through his relationship with a self-styled "model," but because he committed the unforgiveable sin of lying to the House of Commons about the whole sordid affair.

Had he not in the first place attempted to cover up his indiscretion by falsely declaring his innocence before Parliament, it is not altogether improbable that the British people, long noted for their broad-minded attitude toward such matters, would have forgiven him.

However, through following his misguided course of action he has only succeeded in involving his government in a tasteless and sensational political scandal, the effects of which will spread far beyond the bounds of national interest.

For the Macmillan government the affair could spell political doom. For the British people it will mean disillusionment in their long and unquestionable acceptance of the probity of those in high and responsible public office.

One thing is certain. It is not only Mr. Profumo who will suffer the sad consequence of his ill-starred behavior.

A But About Butts

THE FACT that almost one-half of the forest fires so far this year in the Lower Mainland and Vancouver Island forest district have been directly attributed to human carelessness in various forms is little short of astonishing in an area where the woods count for so much, where fires can be so costly and where the ease with which they can start and spread is so often demonstrated.

Of 64 outbreaks, according to the forest service, 13 have been caused by abandoned and unextinguished campfires, 12 by smokers and five by children playing with matches.

For those who leave campfires without making sure they are black and cold there scarcely can be any excuse. Nor for those on foot in the woods or fields who drop their still-glowing cigarette ends and fail to scuff out the last spark.

None either, really, for the drivers and passengers who flick their lighted cigarette butts from car windows, perhaps to land in the roadside grass. But in this case there is a definite temptation. So often, in most cars, an attempt to stub out a cigarette results in a malodorously smouldering ashtray, besides being attention-diverting in the first place.

It is high time better car ashtrays with efficient snuffers were generally provided as standard equipment. This is one field in which automotive engineers if they have ever given sufficient attention to the problem have shown a surprising lack of ingenuity.

Until more satisfactory ashtrays come along, however, there is an effective makeshift which any motorist can readily provide in the form of a little bucket or tin of sand lodged where it can be easily reached. This may not be a particularly attractive item of car furnishing, but it is better than taking a chance on bearing the responsibility of starting a forest fire.

The New One

RIGHT HON. J. G. DIEFENBAKER (Leader of the Opposition): I should like to direct a question to the secretary of state for external affairs. Of the estimated $120 million required for the peace-keeping operations of the United Nations until January 1, 1964, would the minister say what will be the approximate amount of Canada's contribution? Would he also let the House know whether it is the intention to set up the committee on external affairs at an early date?

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes, and ships, and sealing wax . . ."

By TOM TAYLOR

AT a social function the other night a friend whose mind I like to pick—he's widely erudite and witty—stroked his chin in seeming apology, needless since my own couldn't have rebuked him, and said that his electric razor had gone on the blink and he'd been forced back to the two-edged safety implement of familiar routine.

This was the kind of razor he'd been issued in the last war, there being no handy electric plug-ins on a battlefield, and so, despite that he had discarded this old friend in favor of the mechanical gadget that goes in and out the valleys of the face, he should have felt thoroughly at home even if his face didn't.

I suggested he should have used an open razor but he shied away from me as though I wanted him dead. I didn't, really, and in truth am equally afraid of this instrument albeit it was the one that initiated me into the intricacies of maintaining a beardless countenance. But I wouldn't now dare risk my throat to its tender mercies, and I gaze in admiration at barbers who manipulate it with dexterity. Of course it's not their necks that are at stake.

But, come to think of it, they don't get as much practice at keeping their hand in as once they did, the average man having grown parsimonious in this respect. A whole race of boys has disappeared, incidentally, by this predilection for the do-it-yourself habit. The little soap boys, now gone with the wind. When about 10 years old I had an ambition to be a soap boy. How ambitions fade.

Not entirely, I suppose, for I too soap myself of a morn, prior to eschewing the electric razor which lies forlorn in its case while I utilize the safety. It knows all the wrinkles, you see, and I could even keep my eyes shut while it pursues its prudent course.

It is then, though, that I ponder sometimes this business of cleansing one's physiognomy from the inroads of nature. A labor of love it is, or must be for one invariably strokes the chin affectionately after the operation is completed. As a purely functional gesture this may be to ascertain how one's razor, or more precisely the blade it contains, has done its job, but there's a caress to it also. One loves one's own face. One had better, it being the only face one has. And no man should despise himself. That can be left to outsiders.

Shaving, I learn from studying authorities on the subject, is something that has come and gone throughout the ages. Like women's fashion styles it has been subject to change. One era has favored the beard, another has preferred the razor, and curious it is what kind of razors they must have used when Alexander the Great, for instance, ordered his troops to shave their hirsute facial adornments. 'Twould be an open one, for sure, safety being of no account in those he-man days. Alexander was not interested in looks, by the way. He banished beards simply so the enemy couldn't seize them. Possibly this is why he was such a good general.

The Crusaders also went beardless, I have discovered, which is why the great Saladin's small son wept for terror when he saw their envoys at close range. The shaven face held no terrors for Saladin himself, of course, as you must know if you read this phase of history.

Apparently also there have been 15 separate varieties of beards noted in the fashion annals of beard-growing, not counting I suppose those cultish ones seen extant in the present shaving age. The clean-shaven man rules the roost, which is why my friend stroked his chin in apology and I frightened him by suggesting that he use a miniature, open-edged sword. The mere idea frightens me too, as I have indicated.

Eduard Benes resigned as president of Czechoslovakia rather than approve a Communist constitution 15 years ago today—in 1948—after Communists had managed to take control of the state machinery. With the freeing of Czechoslovakia from the Nazis in 1945, Benes returned to the presidency.

Ottawa Offbeat

A High Price to Pay

By RICHARD JACKSON
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

IT came out, just the other day, that six weeks ago, at the end of three financially touch-and-go years, the Unemployment Insurance Fund finally went broke.

It plunged $23 million deep into the red, and was pulled back into the black—but barely—with a $25 million loan from the new Liberal government.

The fund had lived on borrowed millions many times before, but financial rescue had always come before it actually went bankrupt.

But not this time.

It faces the choice of "reforming" the fund, eliminating the many abuses that have helped run it down from a fat $900 million-plus to $23 million-minus in just six years—or letting it ride, covering the losses with more "loans," which is really a polite word for subsidy or handout.

★ ★ ★

True, the new government is on the record, in policy statements, and, more formally, in the Speech from the Throne, which is its declaration of faith, with a promise of reform.

But so was the old government, equally committed by the spoken and written record, to put the fund on a paying basis.

And nothing ever happened. Time ran out each session. They just didn't get around to it. Something always seemed to get in the way.

The suspicion occurs that the problem was just too politically tough.

As many as 500,000 Canadians have sometimes drawn unemployment insurance in the peak winter months. How many votes do this half million really represent when you include mothers, fathers, sisters brothers and even friends?

If you "reform" the fund, get tough and crack down with new ground rules and strict enforcement to eliminate the abuses and even the rackets . . . how many political enemies do you make?

Too many, the answer so far seems to have been, for reform never came.

Perhaps the new Liberal administration, even in its minority position, may be made of sterner political stuff — and financially hard-headed enough to calculate that $900 million-plus in six years is a pretty high price to pay for keeping only a fraction of the vote sweet.

The point, too, may have been reached that more voters are mad about abuses of the unemployed fund than would be angered by a clean-up.

This possibility, raised by Lakehead MP Douglas Fisher, that rare combination of enlightened Socialist and hard-headed realist, scarcely could have escaped the Liberal government's sharp-eyed, razor-minded Brains Trust.

Fisher, in the toughest indictment yet of the Unemployment Insurance Commission, has said that no issue is as politically hot. Letters, phone calls "surged in" on him, as he put it, with "beefs and suggestions," clearly revealing a wide general belief that there is racketing, that "abuses dominate," that a great proportion of people drawing benefits don't deserve them, and that the whole scheme has encouraged "laziness and cheating," with married women in particular "taking the taxpayer for a ride."

Nobody so far has said it isn't so, particularly the new Liberal administration formally pledged to do something, at last, about it.

Fisher has spoken of pensioners drawing benefits, when not eligible, for months after retirement . . . of married women drawing payments during pregnancy . . . of pulp-cutters, fishermen and other pieceworkers and seasonal occupations making up to $7,000 in six months and living off the fund for the rest of the year.

Right here in the House of Commons, a married woman, wife of a senior federal employee, has drawn unemployment insurance for the three or four months each year when Parliament isn't in session and she isn't working for one of the MPs.

Harbor Secrets

THE mystery of the tomb of Alexander the Great may be solved as a result of the drying up of the Eastern Harbor of Alexandria. This project has been approved by Dr. Abdel Kader Hatem, minister of culture and national guidance of the United Arab Republic.

The author of this project is Dr. Sayed Kareem, architect attached to the government-owned Egyptian Tourist Company, who designed Cairo's newest hotel, the 1,000-room Nefertiti, now in course of construction on the Nile Corniche.

"The Alexandria project presents no difficulty," Dr. Kareem explained. "It is merely a question of sealing two points of access to the harbor—50 and 20 metres wide respectively—and draining off the water with powerful pumps. The job can be completed in about two months." Work will begin as soon as Dr. Kareem can take time off from his many other projects.

Draining the harbor will restore to Alexandria a large section of the Royal Quarter of the town founded by Alexandria the Great, which was destroyed and submerged in an earthquake in 1302.

At various times, sections of columns, pieces of statuary and various relics of the ancient city have been removed from the harbor. The most important discoveries were made last October and early this year, when divers located on the bed of the sea a statue of a Roman youth, a colossal statue of the Goddess Isis, and a section of stone facade, believed to be a piece of the famous Pharos lighthouse.

Salvaging these fragments was to have begun in March, but was postponed several times owing to rough sea conditions. Dr. Kareem's project will solve this problem and at the same time provide answers to many questions concerning this area.

When Alexandria was at the height of its splendor, historians and travellers reported that palaces, temples, the theatre and library all faced the harbor. Excavations in the city have yielded only small fragments and it is more likely that important remains of the ancient city are buried under the waters of the harbor. The recent discoveries tend to confirm this theory.

The Packsack

By GREGORY CLARK

POLITE people infuriate impolite people. This is nowhere more comically demonstrated than in traffic. My work-room window faces up a busy street down which, both morning and evening, the traffic flows into the main street in which I live. Thus throughout the two rush hours of the day there is an endless conflict between the two-way traffic on the main street, and the one-way queue of traffic trying to punch its way out of the side street.

It is interesting to watch. Every now and then, a polite driver comes to the head of the line from the side street. For a time, I thought these were timid drivers afraid to make the necessary wild jump, when a possible opening occurred in the two-way rush of the main street. But in time I realized that they were not timid; for when they jumped, they jumped with the skill and verve of the practised driver.

No. They were just polite. They realized the rights of the main street traffic. And you should hear the toots and blasts, the roars and squawks from the line-up behind them. You should see the infuriated faces of the next cars behind when their turn comes and, with the utmost impoliteness, they slam into the main flow.

The Abyss of Cookery

Cordon Noir

By CASSANDRA from London

UNHESITATINGLY I award the Cordon Noir to Dr. Sidney Schwartz, the American physiologist, who is engaged on research work in the United States to land a man on the moon.

The Cordon Noir is the reverse of the Cordon Bleu.

My Cordon Noir is awarded to Dr. Schwartz for having debased the culinary art to its lowest possible abyss.

This assassin of good food has invented—perpetrated is probably a better word—"edible structural material."

He has committed the ultimate gastronomic crime and has produced a recipe for structural material to be used in the building of Space ships that can also be eaten.

Dr. Schwartz—how happily he is named for the Black Ribbon of astronomic-gastronomic murder—says that he received his inspiration for eating the framework of Space ships "from reading of how an Arctic explorer left mounds of dried fish behind him, which served the double purpose of marking his trail and feeding his sled dogs on his return."

The determined Dr. Schwartz then went to his local grocery store and bought small quantities of white flour, corn starch, powdered milk, powdered banana and hominy grits. For those who are lucky enough not to have had hominy grits, they are a debased form of boiled maize served up, usually for breakfast, in the Southern States of America in what appears to be a cold white slush of pasty glue.

The hominy grits, explained this grim scientific chef, served the same function as gravel in concrete. He then baked these sombre ingredients for nine minutes in a hydraulic press. The result was a dark brown crystalline substance nearly as hard as ivory with a "compressive" strength of 7,230 pounds per square inch.

This almost granite-hard dish can be machined, sawed, drilled and tapped. It can also be moulded into instrument knobs.

To serve the meal (no dim candlelight, elegant silverware or Chateau Yquem required), you reconstitute the dreadful fossilized rocks by soaking them in water at 180 degrees F for two and a half hours.

"The flavor," says Dr. Schwartz, "is not unlike that of breakfast cereal" and in a pre-cooked state on a lunar expedition can be a valuable material for landing gear to be discarded on the face of the moon — which may, in my opinion, be a good place to leave it.

Delicious, Dr. Schwartz, delicious. Kindly accept the Cordon Noir.

IT has now been officially laid down that Mr. Khrushchev did not know of the terror that raged through the Soviet Union while Stalin was in power.

The Communist Party historians have announced that Nikita Sergeyevich Khrushchev was quite unaware of the deportations, the concentration camps, and the killings that went on for 20 years.

On the other hand, the same historians insist that Mr. Khrushchev's contemporaries, Mr. Molotov, Mr. Malenkov and Mr. Kaganovich, know all about Stalin's brutal excesses.

Mr. Khrushchev, who worked hand in glove with this trio, apparently saw nothing. He must have turned the most resolute blind eye on these proceedings since Nelson missed seeing Sir Hyde Parker's signal at the Battle of Copenhagen.

Mr. Khrushchev, the first secretary of the Communist Party, joined it in 1918—so he is no new boy. By 1934 he had become second secretary of the Moscow party organization—a key post that he held while Stalin's purges gripped Russia with terror. By 1935 Mr. Khrushchev was first secretary. In 1938 he became first secretary of the party in the Ukraine, where he was in command when some of the worst and most violent of all the purges were carried out.

It was no coincidence that before Khrushchev arrived in Britain in 1956, he had sent General Ivan Serov ahead of him. Serov was the chief of the Russian secret police and had organized some of the repressive atrocities under the Stalin regime. He was known as "the Himmler of the U.S.S.R."

Anyway, it is interesting that Mr. K is now certified whiter than white.

Lady Macbeth after the murder of the king also had blood on her hands. But she had no professional whitewashers to free her of her guilt:

"Will all great Neptune's ocean wash this blood
"Clean from my hand? No, this my hand will rather
"The multitudinous seas incarnadine,
"Making the green one red."

With the Classics

Who will believe my verse in time to come,
If it were fill'd with your most high deserts?
Though yet, heaven knows, it is but as a tomb
If I could write the beauty of your eyes
And in fresh numbers number all your graces,
The age to come would say, 'This poet lies;
Such heavenly touches ne'er touch'd earthly faces.'
So should my papers, yellow'd with their age,
And your true rights be term'd a poet's rage
But were some child of yours alive that time,
You should live twice, in it and in my rime.

—William Shakespeare

Beautiful, Unsold Island

FEW people realize how unsold—not undersold but unsold—Vancouver Island is. For a country so adapted to compete so easily for the very large tourist dollar of today it is a real shame how unsold the Island is. Just recently I drove from Everett to Vancouver and the total advertising for the Island that I saw was a large sketched sign picturing the Empress Hotel and recommending that people stay there and three, I believe, large yellow ferry signs that advertised (mark this) sailings every two hours.

And then on the ferry that every tourist must use to get to Vancouver Island there is a large selection of advertising of lovely motels and very little else. A person would almost think that all tourists want is a place to stop. I travel quite a bit and believe me I don't look for a place to stop; I look for a place to go. Why doesn't someone make available to tourists at least on the ferries a little folder showing points of interest and campsites and fishing and beauty spots of this whole beautiful unsold Island?

Sugar Prices

The flurry in sugar prices is the natural result of a drastic drop in production of both beet and cane sugar, arising from such causes as the defection of Cuba behind the Iron Curtain and reduction of crops in other countries owing to unusual climatic conditions.

For many years sugar production has been so large in relation to demand that the price has been depressed, so that the wages of workers in some countries have been much too low to afford anything like a decent standard of living, despite help from government subsidies.

I think many fair-minded folk would be glad to pay more for sugar if doing so would help to raise living standards in producing countries such as the Caribbean Islands, Mexico and others.

May I say that I am not wealthy and have never ground anybody's face, and my only interest in the sugar business is that of an ordinary consumer of very small amounts.

On Own Feet

I, as a student and a Canadian, do not believe that nuclear arms in Canada would be of any value. With arms we are obviously a target, and also a buffer for the United States. By accepting nuclear arms from the United States we are becoming more dominated by them. Canada should be able to stand on her own two feet and should start by not accepting nuclear arms.

Nothing to Gain

Mr. Owen appears to think it is quite all right to spend billions in space research, because it employs so many people; but does he not realize that its purpose is completely destructive? Or does he naively believe that the earth's surplus population may one day be housed on the moon?

Man was given dominion over the earth, but not over the sun, moon and stars, and nothing can be gained by trying to reach these far-off places, not even if the setting up of bombing stations aimed at the earth could ever be achieved.

If all the enormous expenditure of time, money, materials and brain power had been concentrated on the feeding, clothing, housing, and above all, educating of the millions of have-nots on the earth, there could have been no danger of war at any time, and Communism, greed and exploitation of others would have been unknown.

Jomo Kenyatta

I have been away for some time and on my return was handed an article which appeared in your paper of several days ago. It was a most scurrilous piece of writing extolling the virtues of Jomo Kenyatta, the bloodstained organizer of the dreaded Mau Mau terrorist movement in Kenya. The facts were garbled and shows that the writer, Browne, is in complete accord and sympathy with this Moscow-trained Communist agitator.

Browne speaks of Kenyatta having an English wife and son. True, he did marry an Englishwoman and had a son. I think it very unlikely that he will ever allow them in Kenya. The conditions in Kenya today are most regrettable and many of us will live to rue the day that Britain, under pressure from the United States, handed the country over to the Kikuyu under the leadership of that fanatic.

Europeans from Algeria

Refugees Face Disaster

By STEPHEN COULTER
from Paris

The conditions under which many are eking out an existence in Marseilles are already appalling—some are sleeping in cellars and others 12 or 15 to a room—and the plight of the majority will become even worse when the government's subsistence allowance ceases at the end of June and they become penniless.

Their future is now causing official alarm in Marseilles. Under the initiative of the Ministry of Repatriates, 400 official and private social workers have begun to take an emergency census of distressed families in the district.

Funds raised by the Red Cross and church charities, who have already provided $40,000 for aid, are practically exhausted. The charity committee has sent out an SOS for help.

Between 40,000 and 50,000 more refugees are expected to flood into the Marseilles area in the next six weeks and emergency reception centres at the airport and docks are being re-organized to cope with them.

One reason for this influx is that many of the refugees have failed to find work or to settle down in other parts of France. Others have thrown up jobs in the north to be with other ex-Algerians.

All Help Ends June 30

The government is, of course, blamed by many for this situation. In spit of fact that it has subscribed generously towards the upkeep of these people although they supported repeated revolts against the state. It has been providing for the upkeep of practically all the 1,200,000 refugees since last summer.

When they arrived they were given lump sums of up to $1,800 for a family with three children, plus ordinary family allowances and subsistence allowance of $20 a week. For 80 per cent of the 70,000 in the Marseilles area this will end on June 30.

Refugee families already living in squalor are threatened with being thrown on the street because they cannot pay the rent of their cramped quarters. One family of four young children and a grandmother is living in a washhouse. The father has gone back to Algeria to work to provide for them. The mother is in hospital paralyzed. The grandmother cannot find the $12 week's rent for lodgings.

Some 65 per cent of the refugees are living in misery, according to the government critics. Several thousand are no longer receiving any state aid and some of these, including partly disabled, are sleeping at nights in Salvation Army hostels.

★ ★ ★

In the Bouches-du-Rhone department alone there are some 1,000 mothers, each with several children, who will be left without resources when the state aid stops on June 30.

Concern at UN

Veto Euphemism For Ugly Reality

By CARMAN CUMMING

For more than 12 years the assembly has been gaining power as its membership doubled. The veto-cramped Security Council has declined in importance.

Now members are asking themselves whether they can ignore the international facts of life that put the veto in the hands of the five permanent council members in the first place.

Specifically, can the scores of smaller nations in the 111-member assembly hope to effect peace-keeping measures if the United States or Russia are seriously opposed.

As Indonesia's L. N. Palar put it this week, the veto was given originally to the five members that were considered powerful enough to frustrate UN action. The phrase "unanimity among the permanent members" was merely a polite euphemism for an ugly reality.

Now, he said, the power to frustrate the UN lay principally with two members. He wondered what the U.S. would do if it found itself in the "isolated" position the Soviet Union now occupies.

Without actually stating it, the Indonesian reflected fear that the assembly, rich in votes but poor in actual power, might become a debating society passing resolutions it has no hope of enforcing—while the big powers simply bypassed the UN in dealing with crises.

The issue points up the fact that the UN charter no longer reflects the real balance of power among the UN organs.

As far back as 1950 the "uniting for peace" resolution, backed by the U.S., in effect provided that the assembly could take over the Security Council's peace-keeping powers when a veto prevented the council from acting.

The principle was strengthened in the Suez crisis of 1956 when the UN Emergency Force was set up by the assembly without Security Council action.

★ ★ ★

In the case of the Congo, the Soviet Union actually voted in the council to send a UN force, but later condemned it as "illegal" because the late secretary-general Dag Hammarskjold had allegedly violated council directives.

★ ★ ★

The force has been successful chiefly because the U.S. gave it strong moral and financial backing while Russia remained on the sidelines.

The big test will come when the small-country majority tries to take an action that seriously affects one of the giants.

Experts Paint Alarming Picture

World May Become One Big City

By JAMES McGUNIGAL

Illinois Professor Dr. Henry Von Foerster predicts mathematically that world population is going to reach infinity, a number too large to count, in the year 2026.

If man doesn't blow himself up, it appears he is going to squeeze himself to death in 63 years.

A more probable estimate is that of British historian Arnold Toynbee who predicts world population will be 25,000,000,000 within 100 years. By that time, he says, the world will be One Big City.

At this rate, even without hordes of Americans and Orientals, Europeans, Indians, Europeans, Indians, Africans pouring in on us, Canada will have a population of more than 200,000,000.

Toynbee sees the last patches of countryside already disappearing around Tokyo, New York, London and other great population centres.

Architect Constantine Doxiades, of Athens, viewing the population phenomenon, has started a new science, ekistics, which is concerned with the lack of psychological effects of the lack of green areas and the monotony of buildings on people.

Man, it appears, may bore himself to death or drive himself crazy before the squeezing starts.

Certainly, it is clear that, apart from an immediate nuclear war, population pressure is the major crisis in our lives. And by its hugeness it affects us in ways as new to us as radio, television, air travel and the exploration of space.

★ ★ ★

Consider that it took a million years from the dawn of man to the birth of Christ for world population to reach 250,000,000—and 18½ centuries after that for it to pass the first billion.

The second billion was reached in 1930 and the third billion last year.

An estimate of world population at the end of the century—only 37 years away — is seven billion.

In our artificial, urban life, we may be producing a new race of nature-starved, monotony-jaded psychopaths, say the experts.

Town and regional planners warn that man who evolved through millions of years as a tree animal isn't built for the one-big-city world predicted within 100 years by Toynbee. They explain that man only recently monkeyed his way out of the jungle into language, civilization and space travel.

★ ★ ★

All the experts warn that since the industrial revolution man has been rapidly working his way into a steel and concrete jungle — that already threatens the balance of nature and his mental and emotional health.

The monotony, noise, pollution and artificiality of our modern cities can be painful, stress-producing and more cancer-causing than cigarette smoking, medical authorities have said.

But builders out for dollars, planners hamstrung by budgets, architects enslaved by technology and machines, are grinding out the same old patterns with exhausting regularity.

Will Peru Vote End Junta Rule?

By PHIL NEWSOM

Peru conducts an important experiment in democracy on Sunday when 2,000,000 Peruvian voters select a new president, two vice-presidents and the total membership of Congress after nearly a year of military rule.

But this is not the only reason the election is important. It also will test the good intent of the military rulers who have promised that it will be free.

Haya de la Torre, founder and leader of Peru's American Popular Revolutionary Action party, has spent years in exile and more years in hiding out from Peruvian police in the Colombian embassy in Lima.

He is considered a leftist of the same school as President Romulo Betancourt of Venezuela and Preident Juan Bosch of the Dominican Republic.

★ ★ ★

In Peru, he is suspect by the military and right wing political groups, and prior to last year's elections, military leaders had vowed publicly that if elected he never would be permitted to take office.

After the elections the military charged frauds and seized the government.

In fact, all major candidates are the same as a year ago. The other two are Fernando Belaunde Terry, a professor of architecture and enthusiastic explorer of Peru's Andes mountains and jungles, and former president Manuel Prado.

U.S. Liners Fly Again Over Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP) — The state department announced today that U.S. commercial airliners will be allowed to fly over Cuba for the first time since the October missiles crisis.

The United States had imposed restrictions on flights by U.S. airlines at that time. Cuba never formally acted to bar the flights.

The department noted that airlines of other countries have been flying across Cuba for the last several months without incident.

"Our judgment is that the risks to safety of such overflights to U.S. carriers are minimum," a department announcement said.

Dilemma Unresolved

Business Questions Hiring of Specialists

By FORBES RHUDE

Business apparently isn't quite sure what kind of people it should hire as future executive material, and swings rather uncertainly between general and specialist training.

R. H. Keefler of Montreal, speaking at this week's annual meeting of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, commented:

"In spite of all the personnel interviewing techniques we have developed, I sometimes wonder if business really knows what qualities it wants—or, if it does, can it recognize these qualities? People have a habit of unintentionally concealing their good qualities it wants—or, if it does, intentionally conceal their weaknesses."

★ ★ ★

Keefler, who is president of Northern Electric Co. Ltd., said that in practice business tends to seek specialists, because it knows how to use specialists in the early years of employment.

Later on, it frequently finds itself in the position of having to select managers from men who were originally hired as specialists, but in whom it now is seeking traits associated with a much broader background.

"One of the results," Mr. Keefler continued, "is that universities are asking business why it hesitates to hire liberal arts and business administration graduates, but insists on sending men back to university for broadening courses in these subjects later on in their careers."

★ ★ ★

Leo Teplow, assistant vice-president, American Iron and Steel Institute, New York, illustrated the difficulties of arriving at conclusions through surveys.

A research project in the 1920s tried to determine what level of lighting would produce the best results in a certain operation employing girls. The result:

When light intensity was increased, production went up. But it also rose in the control group in which light intensity was unchanged. Later, when light intensity was decreased, production again went up; and it continued to rise so long as the girls involved could make out the work they were engaged in.

Production also continued to rise in the control group in which lighting was not changed.

As a purely physical experiment, Mr. Teplow commented, it was a failure, and the researchers never did find out what was the best level of lighting.

"But," he added, "they did discover something of far greater importance. The reason production went up was that the girls knew that management at all levels was very much concerned about them. They felt they had become important. And they responded by demonstrating how well they could produce."

Mr. Teplow said some of the lessons of this early research haven't yet been completely digested. He said sometimes success of a certain technique in winning employee participation leads to the technique itself being regarded as a panacea, "when actually it was the existence of a philosophy of employee participation — regardless of the mechanism used—that was responsible for improvement."

More Defence Orders In Offing for Canada

WASHINGTON (CP) — Defence Production Minister Drury predicted Thursday there will be an increased cross-border flow of military orders as Defence Secretary McNamara agreed to remove restrictions on the placing of new U.S. orders in Canada for research and development of new arms and equipment.

This restriction was one of a number imposed by McNamara in efforts to restrain U.S. defence spending abroad to conserve the American gold stockpile. Drury said McNamara reaffirmed that none of the other restrictions will apply to Canada, adding at a press conference that his talks with McNamara were constructive, helpful and "very successful."

An aide to Drury later explained that removal of the restriction on research and development contracts in Canada will once again enable Canadian manufacturers to get in on the ground floor of U.S. military production. Without participation in research and development, Canadians might find many U.S. doors closed in the search for production-sharing contracts.

Did NORAD Campaign?

OTTAWA (UPI) — New Democrat H. W. Herridge charged Thursday that senior officers at the North American air defence headquarters in Colorado Springs, Colo., took part in Canada's recent election campaign.

"When they are saying that the government of Canada is wrong, and the Liberal party is right, I think that is campaigning," Mr. Herridge charged.

Food, Clothing Prices Keep Index Steady

OTTAWA (CP) — Over-all price declines for food and clothing helped to keep the Canadian consumer price index steady during April.

At May 1 the index was placed by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics at 132.3 on the basis of 1949 prices equalling 100. This was unchanged from April 1 but slightly above the 130.1 in May, 1962.

Dismantling of the emergency import surcharges on March 31 are not believed to have had any significant effect on consumer price movements during April. The surcharges applied mainly to luxury goods.

Sugar price increases were listed during April but the main boosts occurred during May and thus will not appear in the index until a month later.

Besides the sugar increases, prices increased during April for milk, jams, most fresh and canned fruits and vegetables, orange juice and beef. Lower prices were reported for eggs, fats, lettuce, oranges, pork, veal, chicken and turkey.

No Cold War Plot Found

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Martin informed the Commons Thursday that he had found no information about an alleged world-wide campaign financed by German industrialists to keep up cold war tensions.

Document Fight Roars in House

OTTAWA (CP)—A Progressive Conservative attempt in the Commons Thursday to expunge a controversial Commons decision made Wednesday precipitated a half-hour procedural argument.

The Conservative target: Commons approval of a New Democratic Party motion that the government produce any documents showing a commitment by the former Conservative government to accept nuclear weapons for Canadian forces.

Gerald W. Baldwin (PC—Peace River) said the action was irregular and thus "a nullity."

DECISION LATER

Speaker Alan Macnaughton said he would make a decision later in the day.

Labor Minister MacEachen argued it would be improper to reverse a decision already made by the Commons, and that any objection should have been made before the motion was voted on.

Mr. Baldwin's objection centred on reservations to the motion expressed by External Affairs Minister Martin—that he would consider producing a summary or extracts from the documents, which he said could not be produced in full because of security restrictions.

CITES PRACTICE

Mr. Baldwin said the practice has been that such reservations be accepted only if there is unanimous Commons consent. He referred to Opposition Leader Diefenbaker's objection at the time that the government should produce all of the documents or nothing at all. He did not want an "expurgated" version by Mr. Martin.

Mr. Baldwin also complained that the official record of Wednesday's Commons proceedings showed the New Democratic motion, by party Whip Stanley Knowles, had been adopted subject to the reservations expressed by Mr. Martin. He said this was an improper record—similar reservations on other such motions were never recorded.

'Pretty Boy' Calls For Rescue

A two-year-old budgie bird named Pretty Boy, who flew from a window of the 533 Dallas Road apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Ian Watson yesterday, let its owners know where it was when he hadn't been found two hours later.

Perched unseen in a tree at the rear of the property, the bird began to sing out "Pretty Boy, Pretty Boy Bobbie," until Mr. Watson's step-son, Douglas Boden, 19, of the RCN, climbed the tree and rescued the bird.

VMD Explains:

Age Limit Factor In Layoffs

Two employees, aged more than 65, laid off recently by Victoria Machinery Depot were temporary workers who had reached 65 before they were hired, a company official said last night.

H. S. Hammill, VMD general manager, was replying to criticism of the layoff by a Victoria Labor Council meeting Wednesday. It was suggested at the council meeting that the two electricians were probably laid off for reasons other than age and VMD was probably just using age as an excuse.

The lay-off was originally protested by Local 230, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

FIRST MEN CUT

Mr. Hammill said the two temporary employees were, in accordance with company policy, the first to be laid off of an anticipated 30 or 40 electricians.

He said these and other trades will be released while work on HMCS Assiniboine draws to a close in the next two or three weeks.

He termed the 65-year age limit "one of our rules."

He said, "It is not adhered to entirely, but it fits into our pension scheme. A man may work longer on a year-to-year basis but only if he is capable and a permanent employee. "We'll hire anyone capable up to the age of 65 and we'll hire persons more than 65 in an emergency, when we can't get anybody else."

He said VMD has hopes it can land another government job which it can dovetail with the end of the Assiniboine conversion, thus avoiding some of the projected layoffs.

At Wednesday's labor council meeting council secretary-treasurer A. W. Toone said the only final solution for these problems is establishment of adequate portable pensions.

A letter from the electrician's union said the two men discharged were in good health and were capable workers.

Thief Takes Cash, Leaves Blood Stains

Once inside the thief jimmied the cigarette machine and broke into a cash box gathering about $7 from the cash box. It was not known how much the cigarette machine contained.

Man Beaten On Street

A 27-year-old man was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital with injuries when he was given a beating early yesterday morning.

The first call to the police station was a complaint of a drunk lying at Douglas and Saanich Road. Police found he had been kicked in the groin and was unconscious when they arrived.

When questioned, Ronald Jackson, 710 Kings Road, said he had been visiting a friend but refused to give police any details.

Wall to Circle World's Fair

MONTREAL (CP) — A stone wall 20 feet thick is to be built around the three-island site designated for the 1967 World's Fair. The wall is to enclose a 310-acre area comprising St. Helen's Island, Ile Ronde and Ile Verte on the St. Lawrence River. Lucien Saulnier, chairman of the city executive committee, said tenders for the contract will be called today and opened June 18.

Security Key Dock Issue

Job security is the key issue in a threatened strike by 4,500 B.C. longshoremen, a Victoria Longshoremen's union official said last night.

Stan Ball, president of Local 504, the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union (CLC), said the Victoria local has about 150 of the 700 Vancouver Island longshoremen who would be involved in the strike.

He said a primary goal of the union in negotiations with the B.C. Shipping Federation is a modernization and mechanization plan to protect the longshoreman threatened with being displaced by automation.

VOTE WEDNESDAY

Members of a dozen B.C. locals of the union will vote Wednesday on whether to authorize officials to call a strike, following failure of a federal conciliation board to resolve the issue.

"The Shipping Federation of B.C. have stalled and stalled — we've been 11 months without a contract—but we'll get our objective eventually," Mr. Ball said.

He said a mechanization and modernization plan, such as has been in effect in Alaska for some three months and on the U.S. west coast for some three years, would establish a jointly-administered fund for pension and early retirement payments.

Mr. Ball said the union is not opposed to bringing in machines but the workers want a share in the greater profit operators gain through operation.

"Job protection is by far more important to the man on the job than wages," he said.

Another aspect of job security at stake involved a question of union jurisdiction which, at the moment, only involves mainland ports, he said.

Mr. Ball is a member of the union's four-man negotiating committee which also includes R. C. Smith and Craig Peritchett of Vancouver and Les Labinsky of New Westminster.

Dance Planned

Layritz Little League is holding a dance in aid of little league ball at $2 a couple at 9 p.m. Saturday, June 15, at the Fraser Street hall. Refreshments will be served.

Ex-Con Admits Strangling Divorcee

NEW YORK (UPI) — Towering ex-convict Charles Terry Thursday confessed strangling a 62-year-old divorcee in a Times Square hotel room, police said.

Terry, 34, a 6-foot, 5-inch 200-pounder, also was being questioned by Boston police about four unsolved stranglings in Boston last year, authorities said.

Police said there were "similarities" in the way Mrs. Zenovia Clegg was strangled and sexually molested, and the Boston murders.

'Vital Points' On Power Unsettled

VERNON (CP) — British Columbia Progressive Conservative leader E. Davie Fulton says the most vital points in the Columbia River treaty have yet to be settled. He listed them as price, duration of contracts and recovery of power for B.C. needs. He said the points had been "conspicuously absent" from statements following recent B.C.-Ottawa talks.

Limit Stirs U.S. Fishermen

SEATTLE (AP) — Spokesmen for the fishing industry in Washington state differed Wednesday in their opinions of the effect of Canada's proposed 12-mile coastal limit.

One U.S. fishing organization spokesman said he didn't believe Canada would bar U.S. fishermen, but an official of another group expressed concern.

"As long as they grant historic fishing rights, it's not going to have any effect on our boats," said an official of the Halibut Producers Co-op, Seattle. He asked not to be quoted by name.

"According to what we've read, that's what they're shooting for. I don't think they have any animosity toward American boats. I think it's to protect their interests from the Japanese and Russians."

"We would be dead ducks if a 12-mile limit went into effect."

Bullock said Washington salmon trollers would lose 60 per cent of their annual catch if pushed out of waters 12 miles off British Columbia.

"And these are the Silver and Chinook salmon we are propagating," he said. "All the efforts from our fish farms and hatcheries would be eliminated."

George Starlund, state fisheries director, said he would ask the state department to protect U.S. fishing rights.

Doctor Suspended In 'Goofball' Case

VANCOUVER (CP)—Physician Samuel William Baker has been suspended from practising for six months for infamous and unprofessional conduct.

The College of Physicians and Surgeons said it acted after a committee composed of three doctors and a County Court judge investigated charges related to the prescribing of barbiturates by Baker.

Aug. 1, 1962, a city newspaperman reported he received six barbiturate capsules from Dr. Baker. The reporter said he was not given a physical examination or asked any questions about his medical background.

The reporter was investigating trafficking in goofballs, barbiturates taken with alcohol to produce a light-headed effect. The goofballs are taken as a substitute for the more-powerful heroin.

Psychiatrists Say:

Let Boards Operate Mental Hospitals

VANCOUVER (CP)—A committee of leading Canadian psychiatrists has advocated that provincial mental hospitals in Canada be turned over to local boards of management and staffed by psychiatrists in private practice.

This is as opposed to government institutions being operated by civil servants—like the 3,800-bed Essondale complex near here.

SIX-YEAR STUDY

The report is the result of a six-year study sponsored by the Canadian Mental Health Association and conducted by eight governmental and private psychiatrists.

Chairman of the committee was Dr. James Tyhurst, professor of psychiatry at the University of B.C.

The report said mental patients would be covered by hospital and medical insurance entitling them to the same standard of care given to physically-ill patients in general hospitals.

SPECIAL UNITS

More and more patients would be treated in special psychiatric units in general hospitals. The committee said 93 to 97 per cent of all psychiatric patients can be completely treated in this way.

The study is, on many points, in direct conflict with the survey made for the B.C. government two years ago by Dr. Mathew Ross, then medical director for the American Psychiatric Association.

About Dogs

Farmer Learns Hard Way

HOPE (CP)—Joe Cote, not impressed with a likable black Labrador he bought for chasing animals from his farm, exchanged it for a 75-pound Doberman Pinscher - German Shepherd cross.

It attacked Cote's four-year-old daughter Maryann, and was chewing at the screaming child's head when her father came to her rescue.

Cote kicked the animal away, and it charged at him. He beat it over the head with a hammer —so hard that he broke the handle.

Still alive, the dog came back fighting and Cote shoved his hand down the animal's throat then wrapped a chain round its neck.

In hospital, 26 stitches were needed to close the wounds on Maryann's head.

The dog was shot.

And Wednesday Cote bought a fox terrier.

"I don't think he's big enough to chase animals—but he likes children," said the farmer.

Mantle Out Five Weeks

* * *

NEW YORK (AP)—A second examination of Mickey Mantle's left foot Thursday showed that the New York Yankee's $100,000 outfielder will be out of the lineup "a minimum of five weeks."

Dr. Sydney Gaynor, club physician, made the examination after the player was brought here from Baltimore, where his left foot was hurt Wednesday night when the spikes of his shoe caught in a wire fence while he was chasing a home run by Brooks Robinson.

"Mantle has an undisplaced slightly oblique fracture of the third metatarsal, with fragments in excellent alignment," Dr. Gaynor said. "Fortunately, he suffered no other injury."

The all-star game is scheduled to be played in Cleveland July 9.

Chicago Cubs' hero, relief pitcher Lindy McDaniel, gets scalp treatment by teammate Billy Williams after 3-2 victory over San Francisco. Cubs Take First On Cliff-Hanger

Amazing, if temporary, things have been the rule this major league season but nothing has been more amazing than the Chicago Cubs, a club which last season wound up in ninth place in the National League with a 59-103 record and 42½ games out of first place.

Yesterday, the storybook Cubs came up with a story-book finish to become part of a three-way scramble at the top of the tables by making it five straight and 11 out of 13 with a series-sweeping 10-inning, 3-2 win over San Francisco Giants.

Lindy McDaniel, 28-year-old righthanded relief pitcher who appears to have recovered his old-time form this season after being traded to the Cubs by St. Louis Cardinals, will probably always look on Thursday, June 6, as the most memorable day of his career.

He was hurried into the game in the ninth inning with the score 2-2, the bases loaded, one out and dangerous Ed Bailey at the plate. He got one strike on Bailey, then nailed Willie Mays off second base for the second out.

THE BIG BLAST

Then McDaniel proceeded to strike out Bailey and make further pitching unnecessary by hitting Billy Pierce's fifth pitch in the 10th inning for a home run.

It was only the second home run of McDaniel's major league career, which dates back to 1955. To make it count, the Cubs tied the score on two pitches with two out in the eighth inning. Ken Hubbs hit a double and Billy Williams hit the next pitch for a home run to ruin things for Juan Marichal, who had a four-hit shutout at the time and looked unbeatable.

THREE-WAY TIE

Defeat was the eighth for the Giants in the last 11 games, and it left them in a first-place tie with the Cubs and St. Louis Cardinals, who squeezed by Philadelphia Phillies, 5-4. An eighth-inning double by pinch-hitter George Altman provided what proved to be the winning run.

Meanwhile, Baltimore Orioles regained the American League lead by taking the series decider, 4-2, from New York Yankees, scoring two eighth-inning runs on singles by Brooks Robinson and Jim Gentile.

With first-baseman Joe Pepitone substituting in centrefield for the injured Mickey Mantle, the Yankees almost lost Jim Bouton. The young righthander, who started with a 7-1 record, was felled in the fourth inning when hit on the face by a line drive from Jackie Brandt's bat.

He was taken to hospital for a sewing job which required 12 stitches but it is believed he will be able to take his next turn.

Mickey's Medical History

BALTIMORE (AP)—Here's the hospital history on New York Yankees' oft-injured super star, Mickey Mantle, who suffered a broken bone in his left foot Wednesday night:

1947—As a 16-year-old high school football player in Oklahoma, afflicted with osteomyelitis, a bone disease, in the left ankle and shin. The disease has been arrested, but Mantle still takes periodic injections and plays with the leg heavily taped.

1952 — Reinjured the right knee, necessitating another operation.

1963—Suffered a rib cage injury in spring training, reinjured rib cage in second game of the season and missed 16 games before Wednesday's mishap.

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

Despite repeated rumors of spectacular trades in the offing, the annual National Hockey League meeting was a dullish affair. Montreal Canadiens, Detroit Red Wings and New York Rangers shifted a fairish amount of personnel but the seven-player deal between Canadiens and Rangers was the only one of any consequence. And the chief interest there may be that it could possibly settle two old arguments—did Plante win the Vezina Trophy six times only because he was fortunate enough to be with Canadiens when they were at their best and is Worsley as good as he has looked over the seasons with the defence-weak Rangers?

Most agree the Rangers got the better of the deal, a view reportedly endorsed by Toe Blake, who is said to have felt so strongly about it that there are now reports that he may not consent to return as coach. After all, Don Marshall is a fine two-way player and Phil Goyette has shown that he can be quite useful when he has an injury-free season.

Only Dave Balon, and he is not yet past the borderline stage, of the three forwards Canadiens got in return looks like he may make it as a regular for his new club. Leon Rochefort and Len Ronson so far have looked no more than farm-club material.

However, for most fans the interesting part of the deal is the Plante-Worsley exchange. Can Plante prove he can star on a weaker club than he has been accustomed to and can Worsley prove that he can perform the heroics for a contender that he performed for a trailer?

Just why Plante should be tagged by so many as having built a reputation because he spent so many seasons with the best club in the NHL is something that has escaped me. It must be because he is a bit of a show-boat and that there would appear to be some substance to a prevailing opinion that he is addicted to hypochondria and self-interest. There should be no reasonable doubt about bona-fide ability in the seasons he won the Vezina Trophy—six in all.

Plante did play for Canadiens when they were dominant, but I believe he was one of the very big reasons they were dominant for so long. Canadiens got over the loss of Doug Harvey and Maurice Richard without tumbling and it's just as reasonable to presume that the club slipped after Plante did as it is to think that the club slipped first and thereby exposed Plante as something less than great.

Worsley's case is different. During his many NHL seasons the Rangers were only once a real contender and as goalkeepers with the have-nots often do, he looked better than his supporting cast. The rap against him was that he sometimes played badly on the too-few occasions his club played well but there is no question that when he was right, which was often, Worsley was the most spectacular goalkeeper in the NHL. He was often faulted for easy-looking goals scored when he was flat on the ice but it was also true that most of the time he had just made a save no one could have reasonably expected him to make.

What Worsley and Plante do next season will be used to settle many an argument, but both are 34 and it may be too late for definite proof. But both have been provided with an incentive which calls for submersion of their individualistic tendencies and the likelihood is that both will prove what should have been evident to all who have watched them play—that they are exceptionally-gifted goalkeepers.

Four Americans In Final Eight

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP)—Four Americans, including Walker Cup players Dr. Ed Updegraff, Dick Davies and Dick Sikes, moved into the quarter-finals of the British amateur golf championship Thursday.

Two other Americans—Chris Blocker and Hugh O'Donnell—went out in the fourth round.

Michael Lunt, British Walker Cup player, grabbed a 1-up victory over Blocker and Shade defeated O'Donnell 2 and 1.

Davies will play Lunt in today's quarter-finals.

That doesn't mean there are no fish about. There are . . . and some big ones, too . . . but it takes some scratching to get them and the bite has been spotty.

River fishing, except at the mouths for cutthroats and in the bigger rivers like the Cowichan and Nanaimo, has been just about nil because of low water conditions, although the little bit of rain at the mid-week may help some pools.

Lake fishing had started to slip, but the cooler weather and the cooling rain will undoubtedly prolong the season.

"The fishing is coming in again. It went off when the ants came out, but now the smaller ones are biting and the fishermen are getting them into the boat," says Bill Ravenhill from Cowichan Lake. King Fisherman records show they are getting some big ones there still, up to five pounds.

Prospect and Elk Lakes are producing bass and St. Mary Lake is producing bass and trout. Quennell appears to be coming in hot for bass, with sunfish strip being the popular lure in that lake.

On the Cowichan River the lower reaches have been only fair with some better fishing below the power line, just up from Pimbury Bridge. Skutz Falls area has been good to fair for both worm and fly fishermen. Riverbottom area is reported poor and the upper reaches are reported fair to poor.

Six and seven-inch undersized steelhead smolts are plaguing the serious fishermen who are out after the bigger fish.

Dougan Lake has been fair to poor, as has Somenos Lake.

The Nanaimo Lakes have been good for both fly fishermen and lake trollers; Westwood, fair on fly and troll; Brannan, fair on fly and troll; Blackjack and Extension, fair on fly and troll.

In the Alberni, Two Rivers Arm and mid Taylor Arm in Sproat Lake have been producing well on both wet and dry flies. There is an early run of summer steelies in the Stamp, Ash and China Creek. Fly fishing at the Little Qualicum River where it starts from Cameron Lake is picking up in the late evenings and those who know the spots are picking up cutthroats up to four pounds on the dry fly in Cameron Lake.

Great Central Lake is rated as good.

Lower reaches of the Puntledge is still rated good for cutthroat on tinsel fly, small plugs and bait, and the Oyster is also producing well. Browns River has been good for steelhead and Comox Lake is rated good.

There has been some good fly fishing in the spillways at Ladore and Upper Campbell dams. Lower and Upper Campbell and Buttle are all fair; Fry Lake is also reported fair and Loveland has been providing some good fly fishing.

On the saltwater scene there has been a fair showing of bluebacks and coho grilse at Brown's Bay, north of Campbell River, with the average about two to a boat. That may mean that Campbell River fishing is just about ready to get going. Some fair-sized springs have already been taken off Quadra Island and a few springs have been taken off Bates Beach and Comox.

Murray Cree reports plenty of bluebacks and springs showing in the Qualicum area and French Creek, although effort has been light. Deep Bay and Qualicum Bay are now producing bluebacks, with the odd coho over five pounds.

In the Northwest Bay to French Creek waters anglers have been averaging three fish to a boat, mainly bluebacks and coho grilse, with herring strip and plastic squid productive lures. The same conditions exist off Nanaimo at the Flat Tops, Fingers and Snake Islands.

Springs and blues have been reasonably abundant off Sidney, but effort has been light.

Big fish of the year has come from Oak Bay, a 40-pounder by Peter Johnston, off Discovery Island Sunday. There are big fish around those waters, but it has taken some scratching and know-how to get them.

The same conditions persist off Victoria, at Pedder Bay, Snake, Becher Bay, and Otter Point. If you fish long enough, and hard enough, and have a little luck you will get a fish or two.

Saanich Inlet is getting some of the best spring salmon fishing it has had for several years, with fish coming from pretty well all over the Inlet. But it is spotty. One day it is very good, the next day it might be dead.

Finlayson Arm . . . the old Misery Bay, Chesterfield Rock, Goldstream Island triangle, has been best producer of the bigger springs, in the 20-pound class.

There is no consistency. One day they are taking at 300 to 400 feet of wire line and a planer. Next day they are 200 to 300 feet with nylon line. They are being taken off-shore and over the reefs. This is the time when the haphazard fisherman has nearly as much chance as the expert. Deep Hole waters have been good and McKenzie Bay to Willis Point waters have been giving up some smaller springs.

Is Worsley Great Thanks to Pal?

QUEBEC (CP)—Centre Camille Henry of New York Rangers says the man who counted the shots on goal in New York last season was a great friend of Rangers' goalie Gump Worsley. Worsley was traded to Montreal Canadiens Tuesday for Jacques Plante.

Henry told a service club Wednesday night Worsley was not the goalie he appeared to be.

"I remember one time where it was said Worsley had blocked more than 200 shots in a four-game series," the diminutive forward explained. "Fully admitting we weren't the best club in the league, we had difficulty giving credit to these figures when we knew that the man who counted shots at New York was a great friend of Worsley's.

"We decided to make a little investigation and we asked someone who knew hockey well to count the shots on Worsley. We found he was never called upon to block more than 40 shots in a game."

Henry said that in one game, the Rangers asked Toronto goalie Johnny Bower to count the saves by Worsley. Bower counted 32 while the Madison Square Garden statistician totalled 34.

West Indies 244 for Three

MANCHESTER, England (Reuters)—A patient 104 not out by Conrad Hunte and a dashing 90 by Rohan Kanhai put the West Indies on top on the opening day of the first cricket test against England Thursday.

When bad light and rain ended play about an hour before the scheduled close the West Indies were 244 for three.

Hunte, after losing his opening partner Michael Carew with the total 37, did a great job for his side. His 15 fours showed how well he punished the ball.

Kanhai was in his most exhilarating mood and gave a glorious exhibition of stroke play, both in front and behind the wicket.

Although England badly needed his wicket, it was something of a disappointment for the crowd of 15,000 when he was brilliantly run out by David Allen when 10 short of his 100.

Freddie Trueman, the only England bowler who really worried the West Indians, took both the other wickets to fall Thursday.

England spent a hard day in the field after West Indies captain Frank Worrell won the toss. The conditions were ideal for batting, though they might deteriorate as the result of Thursday night's rain, which would make it tough for England.

Other scores:

At Harrogate—Somerset 202 and 50 for 1, Yorkshire 382.

Striking Historic Parallel

Gordon Knott Is B.C.'s 'Winslow Boy'

By TED SHACKLEFORD

The dramatic story of the fight by the Knott family of Lake Cowichan to clear the name of 19-year-old Gordon Knott who was unjustly discharged from the navy has startling parallels with one of the most famous English court cases of this century.

Gordon Knott was vindicated and cleared of unfounded suspicion when Justice Minister Lionel Chevrier apologized to the boy in the House of Commons this week.

A similar statement was made in July, 1910, in an English court where 15-year-old George Archer-Shee was cleared of an unfounded charge levelled by Royal Navy officials.

★ ★ ★

The Archer-Shee case formed the basis for a play, The Winslow Boy, later made into a movie. In both the Archer-Shee case and Gordon Knott's case there are these parallels:

● Both were teen-agers at the time the charges were levelled at them — George Archer-Shee was 13; Gordon Knott was 17.

● Both were in a branch of the navy — Archer-Shee was a cadet at Osborne; Gordon Knott was undergoing basic training at HMCS Cornwallis, Halifax.

● Both were discharged on the basis of faulty evidence — Archer-Shee was alleged to have stolen a five-shilling money order belonging to another cadet; Gordon Knott was alleged to be related to Victoria Communist Ernest L. Knott.

● Both boys were unable to obtain any satisfaction by appeal directly to the authorities.

● Both the British Admiralty and the RCN gave as justification for their actions the excuse that the boys had poor scholastic records.

★ ★ ★

Navy Boys Falsely Accused

● Both boys had their causes championed by opposition members of parliament who forced naval officials to acknowledge their mistakes—Archer-Shee was represented by Sir Edward Carson; Gordon Knott's champion was NDP member of Parliament Colin Cameron.

★ ★ ★

● Both families struggled to clear their sons' names for two years before success.

In the Archer-Shee case the matter was finally resolved when Sir Edward Carson sued the Crown on behalf of the boy's father. The Crown eventually paid the Archer-Shee family 7,120 pounds compensation for the legal fees and costs incurred.

★ ★ ★

There are two remaining sidelights to the Archer-Shee case:

Sir Edward Carson eventually became First Lord of the Admiralty and in that capacity he abolished the Osborne school.

And George Archer-Shee chose to join the British Army when the First World War broke out four years after he won his victory.

RCMP Destroys File On Cowichan Youth

OTTAWA (CP)—The RCMP file which mistakenly labelled Gordon Knott of Cowichan, a security risk has been destroyed, Justice Minister Chevrier informed the Commons Thursday.

At the same time, Mr. Chevrier told the Commons that he will at once look into the case of an RCAF man from Regina dismissed from the service and from several other jobs as a security risk.

MAN UNNAMED

The man was not named by Mr. Chevrier or by New Democratic Leader Douglas who suggested Mr. Chevrier undertake the investigation.

Mr. Douglas said RCMP Commissioner C. W. Harvison named the man in a letter to Sidney Katz, a Maclean's magazine writer who dealt with the case in an article about RCMP security investigations.

Mr. Douglas also asked whether Mr. Chevrier had reached a decision about providing some form of appeal procedure to deal with cases of wrongful allegations of security risks.

Mr. Chevrier, describing the problem as "very serious," said such a procedure is under active consideration but held out little hope that a decision could be reached without a lengthy investigation.

Will B.C. Bar Probe Case?

At the B.C. Bar convention June 20 the case of Gordon Knott, 19, of Lake Cowichan, who was kicked out of the navy and vindicated 17 months later, could well become one of the highlights.

"I wouldn't mind bringing the issue up," Lloyd McKenzie, president of the Victoria Bar Association, told the Colonist last night.

"The appropriate body to bring this matter before the convention at the Empress Hotel would be the standing committee on civil liberties of the B.C. branch, Canadian Bar Association," Mr. McKenzie said.

"The legal implications of this issue appeal to lawyers," he added.

Committee chairman John Bird said from Vancouver last night members of the committee had not met since the Knott case became known through newspaper publicity and he could not say whether a motion would be brought forward at the convention.

"Something to that effect might be done. Otherwise, it is open for anybody else to bring it up," he said.

STONEY CREEK, Ont. (UPI) — Several thousand Canadians and Americans gathered in Wentworth County battlefield park Thursday to commemorate the 150th anniversary of the Battle of Stoney Creek.

Out of Order on Shorts?

Trustee Shortcircuited

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)— School trustee Mac de St. Remy found that discussion at Wednesday night's board of education meeting hit pretty close to home.

All eyes turned on him as he entered the room but not a word was said about his attire until he contested a school principal's authority in ordering a male secondary school student not to attend school in Bermuda shorts and knee socks.

The trustee himself was clad in red polka dot bow tie, white shirt, dark Bermuda shorts, knee socks and red walking shoes to match his tie.

No motion was tabled, but the consensus of the board was that shorts are out for secondary school students.

* * *

Standing up to display his own attire, Mr. St. Remy exclaimed: "The boy was told this is not proper dress!"

He said he feels that as long as shorts touch the top of the knee and are not replaced by "short shorts" they should not be considered "indecent."

Dr. J. V. Basmajian, trustee and professor at Queen's University, said: "I was going to suggest that trustee St. Remy was out of order in dressing like this to come here."

Sailor Denied Appeal On Ouster

TORONTO (CP) — Two Toronto lawyers acting for Nickolaos Boulieris, a 22 - year - old Greek sailor who faces deportation, said Thursday that Immigration Minister Guy Favreau has refused them an interview.

The lawyers, Reuben Rodney and William Ash, learned Wednesday that an appeal against the deportation had been refused by the department. They have launched a second writ of habeas corpus, stalling the deportation of Boulieris, who is in jail here.

Boulieris was arrested after almost eight months of freedom in Canada. He jumped ship in Vancouver, just like his father, a Toronto restaurant owner, 11 years ago. His father was allowed to stay.

Mr. Ash said the first writ of habeas corpus issued five weeks ago prevented Boulieris from being "whisked out of the country" even though the department knew about an appeal to the minister.

Age Bar In Jobs Attacked

MONTREAL (CP) — Discrimination in employment because of age should be outlawed, Max Swerdlow, director of education for the Canadian Labor Congress, said Thursday.

He told the 20th annual meeting of the American Geriatrics Society that a high percentage of employers in Canada and the ductive, less flexible, slower not hiring workers over the age of 45.

LESS PRODUCTIVE?

and less resistant and so were more likely to be absent or injured. They also claimed that older workers found it difficult to adjust to technological changes.

But studies made in various countries showed that "today the capacity for work lasts far longer than is commonly recognized."

Two Captured In Gunfight

MONTREAL (CP)—Two men were captured and a third escaped Thursday in a gunfight with eight private detectives in a cemetery near St. Norbert, 40 miles from here. The men were wanted in connection with a $2,000 credit union robbery.

Garden Notes

Layering Technique

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

Most experienced gardeners are familiar with the method of propagating plants and shrubs by taking and rooting cuttings, but comparatively few make use of the layering technique, although it works much more surely.

When a strawberry plant sends out runners which make roots into the soil, that is layering. When the tip of an overgrown blackberry cane bends over and touches the ground, the tip makes roots and anchors itself. This, too, is nature's way of layering.

Many other plants layer themselves naturally, but almost any plant can be induced to do so. In fact, I can't think offhand of any plant which cannot be increased if one of its low-growing shoots or branches is pegged down firmly in the soil and kept moist.

The operation can be performed at any time of the year, but it is generally better and more convenient to do the job when the parent plant of bush is growing strongly and the branches are pliable. With most plants you find such conditions between the months of March and August. Later in the summer the branches turn woody and brittle and are more difficult to bend down.

When layering woody shrubs, select a branch ranging between pencil thickness to ¾-inch diameter, growing out horizontally near the ground and well placed for burying its midsection. At the point where you want roots to appear, remove all twigs and leaves and cut a notch into the underside and about halfway through. Then work your knife up into the head of the notch and split the branch toward its tip for a distance of two or three inches.

Wedge a small pebble into the split portion to keep it open, then moisten the wound and dust lightly with Rootone or Seradix rooting powder, and your layer is ready for pegging down.

It is best to scoop out a hole or little trench immediately below the notched section of branch and fill this with a mixture of damp peat moss, sand, and good garden topsoil. Press the notched portion well down into this mixture and peg it down with a giant "hairpin" made of old wire. Cover with more of the peat-sand-soil mixture, and lay a heavy flat stone or a brick over the top to hold everything in place and to conserve moisture around the cut portion. The free end of the branch should NOT be buried, and it is a good idea to stake and tie it to prevent any movement while roots are forming.

★ ★ ★

There is never any wilting or flagging of growth as there would be with cuttings, for the branch being rooted remains attached to the mother plant, with the half-severed portion acting as a sort of umbilical cord through which it is fed and nourished until it has made roots of its own and is capable of living an independent existence.

★ ★ ★

Don't be in too big a hurry to dig up and replant your layered branch. With most woody subjects, it will take from 12 to 15 weeks to make an adequate set of roots, and once roots have formed, the ordinary rules of transplanting apply. October and March being the best months in our climate. Your layered branch can then be cut free of the parent plant and moved to wherever you wish your new shrub to grow.

Come Blow Your Stack!

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Jill St. John went to New York to publicize her picture, Come Blow Your Horn. But how much good she did for the picture or herself is open to question. At her first interview, Jill was asked, "What is the status of your divorce from Lance Reventlow?" "What are you trying to do, annoy me?" said Jill, and flounced out. Jill, separated from Barbara Hutton's handsome tot, signed in at her hotel as Mrs. Lance Reventlow.

No wonder Tony Curtis smiles at the end of The List of Adrian Messenger when he removes his mask. He was paid $50,000 for the one day's work. I remember the fuss in the newspapers in the early '30s when Connie Bennett was paid the unprecedented salary of $30,000 a week.

Elizabeth Taylor might appear as a blonde in her next picture. She tried a blonde wig on for size in a surprise sequence in Becket. Just for a lark, don't you know. But I've seen a photograph, and the blonde wig suits her. Now if she would only lose some weight.

Young Want Security

They No Longer Want to Be Boss

VANCOUVER (CP)—Young people are no longer interested in being the boss, says International Kiwanis president Merle H. Tucker.

They're just interested in security.

"As an employer I invariably find that young people want to know about insurance premiums, unemployment benefits, pension plans and the like.

★ ★ ★

"I'm concerned about it. It seems that socialism isn't creeping any more. It's running."

He said people in the U.S. and Canada are developing the welfare state attitude.

"We're depending too much on governments to take care of us . . ." he said. "I'm not suggesting we go back to the pioneer days because there are things that governments must do. But when people have too much security they don't feel like working."

★ ★ ★

Mr. Tucker told a group of Kiwanians that faults in a government usually boil down to the faults of the governed.

"Increasingly we find ourselves living under government by default on the part of the people governed," he said.

A recent survey in a metropolitan U.S. area showed only four persons in 10 could name any of the elected leaders. Only two per cent considered it important to take part in community affairs.

Fatal Date

Seven Years Hitched

WINNIPEG, Man. (UPI)—A Toronto social worker told the Canadian Congress of Corrections that the "seven-year itch" may be a definite factor in marriage breakdowns.

W. T. Little of the Metro Toronto Juvenile and Family Court said the average couple have been married seven years when their domestic differences reach such proportions that they seek court assistance.

Little said he bases his statement on a survey of 1,000 families who were aided by the court last year.

He said almost one in every three families is having difficulty because of the use of alcohol by one or both of the partners, most frequently the husband.

Other factors, he said, are non-support, desertion, infidelity, sexual grounds and general incompatibility.

Little said the modern trend to working wives is also a contributing factor to family problems. He said that one out of every four wives included in the survey had jobs.

Psychologists Disagree

Does Spanking Breed Future Wife-Beaters?

VANCOUVER (CP) — Its all right to spank your child as long as you love him while you're doing it says University of B.C. psychology professor G. A. M. Bryenton.

But UBC educational psychologist professor Lawrence Conant disagrees, saying spanking does more harm than good and the only time it is justified is when a small child is about to do something that might endanger its life.

Said professor Bryenton: "The spanking does no harm as long as it is accompanied by proper emotions—not hostility, rejection or anger.

"The issue is not how to punish the child but the emotions of the parent punishing him."

Said professor Conant: "Spanking may solve the immediate problem but when the child grows up he will use violence in his own problems—in strikes, riots, warfare, revolution, even beating his wife."

Weavers Put Their Art on Display

By Ina D. D. Uhthoff

A most effectively arranged exhibit of weaving by the Victoria Handweavers' Guild now is being shown in the Georgian Room of the Hudson's Bay Store.

The guild has been in existence for more than 30 years, and in that time Victoria weavers have come a long way in originality and in the use of color and design, getting inspiration from the work of other countries.

★ ★ ★

In their present show they have included exquisite examples of Japanese weaving—so fine it possesses the texture of silk—Norwegian hand weaving from Oslo—heavy wall hangings to keep out the cold — Italian raffia, linen woven in Russia, tie dying from Majorca and table mats made from the rushes of Sussex.

★ ★ ★

All this has been used as a background for the local work and well designed examples of poster art are interspersed and add variety and a change of scale.

A high standard is required. In fact, the work of the Victoria Handweavers' Guild is severely judged before being exhibited or put up for sale.

Mrs. George Anstey has produced some handsome upholstery material and Miss Harriet Bell has woven the material for the three-piece suit which is on the stand.

Mrs. G. K. Gonnason's wool yardage and Mrs. Hazel Hodson's wool travelling rug are expert examples of hand weaving, and I was particularly interested in a rug designed and woven by Mrs. June Singleton.

It has a rugged quality particularly suited to the design and to the use of the wool of Vancouver Island sheep. One would wish to see more of this work being done.

In the finer weaves, Mrs. Maureen Hartshorne's table mats and the exquisite lunch set by Miss Beatrice Holmes attracted me but there is so much of high quality in this showing it is not easy to pick out the best things.

Race Dispute Bypassed

STEPHENVILLE, Nfld. (CP) The provincial attorney-general's department apparently plans no immediate action on complaints of racial discrimination at liquor-selling social clubs in this west coast Newfoundland town.

Attorney-General Leslie R. Curtis told reporters in St. John's "no action is indicated." He spoke after receiving an RCMP report on an incident May 25. A local club and a restaurant locked their doors when a group of Negro servicemen sought admission.

Owners of four local social clubs met recently with air base officers to discuss the situation. Club owners are reported to have agreed to a no-restriction rule. However, they are said to plan strict enforcement of a rule requiring visitors to present membership cards.

Local club operators say they do not want to discriminate but that white airmen in the past have threatened to boycott clubs admitting Negroes.

Mayor Alec Gillis says the town of Stephenville has no policy of segregation and that town residents have no part of it. He contends Negroes have access to all facilities available to local citizens.

RCMP said the May 25 trouble apparently had its basis in recent U.S. anti-segregationist demonstrations.

Moon Covered by Slag Says Soviet Scientist

WARSAW, Poland (Reuters)—The moon is covered with slag rather than dust as maintained by some American scientists, a Russian space scientist said Thursday.

V. V. Sharanov, Russian delegate to the international space research symposium said "it is quite likely that the slag-like moon's surface was formed as result of the impact of meteor particles."

A report issued last month by the U.S. National Aeronautics and Space Administration said U.S. scientists concluded the lunar surface was covered with a dust layer varying from three inches to three feet in depth.

Lumber Companies Becoming Forest Gardeners

By ERITH SMITH
Colonist Island Editor
(Last of two parts)

Logging operations on Vancouver Island show much better "housekeeping" than used to be the case.

In the old days—and they weren't so very long ago—loggers went into the forest, cut their trees chest-high, hauled away the good timber.

STUMPS LEFT

"What a mess!" exclaimed passersby on the highways whenever they saw regions like this.

PULP ANSWER

Pulp provided the answer. Since the establishment of pulp and newsprint mills on the West Coast, the loggers have become first-rate housekeepers. Everything not usable for lumber may still have a market value as chips for pulp; and the logged-off areas are swept almost bare.

As part of the MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. intensified forestry program, the bare land is invaded almost at once—this time by foresters planting seedlings which, with close care, will provide a forest of even greater yield in another 80 or so years.

NOT FAST-GROWING

This week visiting newspaper and radio representatives being shown the new forestry program saw examples of this.

On plantations on opposite sides of a logging road were planted, in 1954, Ontario red pine and Douglas fir. So far, the red pine seems to be doing best, but the foresters say from now on the fir should catch up and outgrow the pine.

PINE DOING WELL

Fir seedlings (and trials indicate that good two-year-olds are the best) are planted right on the heels of the logging operations. That's not the end of the job.

WEAKLINGS CULLED

They're watched as a gardener might watch his prize roses. As they grow, weaklings are culled at a time when they may yet be marketed, to leave room for the strong trees to achieve full forest maturity or left to become mulch for their neighbors.

Visitors to the Ash River Valley were shown one stand in which about 2,000 trees per acre became established from 1954 to 1957 by natural seeding from surrounding trees.

This clearing has eliminated from 600 to 1,200 trees per acre, but this is no loss to the forest.

On the contrary, company foresters have estimated that, left alone, the overcrowded area would finally have yielded 8,800 cubic feet per acre of good lumber; cleared, the expected yield from 500 trees will be 11,380 cubic feet per acre.

Under its forest management licence, the company's responsibility is not just to cut trees to acquire lumber and pulp, but having cut to replace the forest with one which, in coming years, will be even richer.

The program will mean better, prolonged life not only for many British Columbia communities, but for thousands of British Columbia citizens.

Anarchists Blamed For Blast

LONDON (UPI) — A cheap plastic suitcase exploded mysteriously Thursday only 20 minutes before it was to be put aboard a Portuguese jetliner headed for Lisbon with 68 passengers.

Nobody was hurt by the blast.

"Had this happened in the air, it would have inevitably caused the plane to crash," an airport official said.

There were indications the explosion may have been the latest in a series of bombings or bomb threats carried out by Iberian anarchists in an attempt to scare tourists away from Spain and Portugal.

Mounted March Friday

Seven hundred officers and men of 1st Battalion PPCLI will parade as a fully-equipped infantry battalion in a mounted march today from Work Point along Esquimalt Road to Point Ellice Bridge.

Battalion headquarters company, four rifle companies with light support weapons and support company with heavy weapons will arrive at the bridge about 6:30 p.m.

The parade route: Dunsmuir south to Simcoe, along Simcoe, through Beacon Hill Park and west on Dallas Road where Mayor R. B. Wilson will take the salute.

Units will then form up on the nearby sports field for public viewing.

Lost Generation?

Elderly Need More Help

MONTREAL (CP)—Elderly persons may make up the next lost generation if society does not start doing more to help them, delegates to the 20th annual meeting of the American Geriatrics Society were told Thursday.

Various spakers emphasized the theme that more has to be done to help people enjoy the longer life now promised by the latest medical advances, as well as to educate young persons not fear old age.

Dr. Clark Tibbitts, deputy director of the welfare administration of the United States department of health, education and welfare, told 300 delegates that a vigorous and healthy old age means little unless the person has a significant place in society.

Joseph Willard, deputy minister of welfare at Ottawa, told the meeting the importance of economic problems faced by elderly persons has been largely overlooked.

An adequate income won't assure old persons of a happy retirement, but it's an aspect of the problem that can't be overlooked, he said.

Shortage of Land

New Wine Plan May Take Entire Strawberry Crop

By JACK FRY

A new strawberry wine to be produced in quantity this year by Growers Wine Co. Ltd. may take all the strawberries Saanich growers can produce and more besides.

Growers' Wine Co. Ltd., 3948 Quadra, a user of Saanich Peninsula loganberries for many years, has placed an order for 40 tons of strawberries from the Saanich Fruit Growers' Association.

NEW VENTURE

The firm intends to go into production of strawberry wine in 1963. Preliminary steps for the new venture were taken last year when five tons of strawberries were purchased for experimental purposes.

Saanich Peninsula growers, faced with increasing demands for their products, also found themselves short of land which they will need for an expanded berry business.

LAND VANISHING

Urban sprawl and subdivisions have swallowed up the land which could have been used to increase the farms, and now that growers have a ready market they are apt to find they cannot fill the demand.

Reeve R. Gordon Lee, of Central Saanich, where many of the area's strawberries are grown, predicted yesterday that production of strawberry wine by Growers' Wine Company will have "quite a big effect on our fruit growers out here."

BOOST ACREAGE

Many of the growers probably will increase their strawberry acreage because the wine company is reaching markets all over the world, he said.

But Herbert Bickford, general manager of the growers' association and the cold storage plant on Keating Cross Road, said the picture was not as rosy as Reeve Lee thought.

TOO MANY SUBDIVISIONS

"We have been trying to increase our acreage, but there is not the land here to increase berry crops. Too many subdivisions are coming in and taking up the land," he said.

Mr. Bickford's opinion has been shared by community planners here, who have warned time and time again that accelerated growth of Greater Victoria may someday spoil the rural atmosphere of the Saanich Peninsula.

NEW PERIOD

Anthony Roberts, director of the Capital Region Planning Board, said recently that "the Saanich Peninsula is entering a period of a new surge of development, and the people ultimately will have the choice of making this either a planned development or an unplanned development."

In other words, it will be up to the land owners themselves to decide whether strawberries or houses grow on the fertile, rolling fields of the Saanich Peninsula.

Court Going On Tape?

Testimony in city police court will be tape-recorded in future if a recommendation from finance committee is adopted by city council.

The committee approved purchase of a $4,700 tape machine for court use on recommendation of city manager C. C. Wyatt.

LAW CHANGED

Mr. Wyatt said efforts had been made over a period of several years to install sound-recording equipment for court use. But until one year ago, when the provincial legislation was changed to permit recordings of testimony, use of court stenographers was mandatory.

LEAVING JOB

The issue was revived this week with the announced intention of the present court reporter to leave her job by the end of the month, Mr. Wyatt said.

Vancouver uses five similar tape machines in its police courts and has found them satisfactory.

Acting prosecutor T. P. O'Grady and court clerk Bob Davidson have studied the operation in Vancouver and have given their approval.

City Fireman Hurt In Garage Blaze

Fireman Gordon Smith, of the Burnside fire hall, gashed his hand on the corrugated sheet metal siding of the burning building. He was treated at St. Joseph's Hospital.

About two hours later, William Quin opened the front door of his home at 2104 Quadra, and was met by billowing clouds of black smoke. He closed the door and ran next door to telephone the fire department.

Walls and ceiling of a front room were charred and some furniture burned. Cause is unknown.

About suppertime yesterday, Saanich fire department was called to Wilkinson Road near the mental home, where a utility pole had caught fire after high tension wires shorted.

The Heaney's garage fire started about 2:30 p.m., while Hans Rudwaleit, 22, 1734 Hollywood Crescent, was applying a waterproofing solution to a tarpaulin about 15 feet by 15 feet in size.

He tried to smother the flames with a rag, then ran for a fire extinguisher. Garry Smith, 772 Cloverdale, about to paint a dozen truck wheels nearby, beat him to it.

FLAMES SPREAD

The tarp—lying on the cement just inside an open doorway of the two-storey garage—became a mass of flames and the large overhead doors of two stalls caught fire. Flames then spread to truck tires outside.

Another workman, Lawrence Clark, 188 Cadillac, arrived with another fire extinguisher and the two men slowed the fire's progress until firemen arrived.

Firemen estimated the damage at $500. Cause of the blaze was listed as "sparks from an unknown cause."

Students Feted

A major turning point in the lives of almost 1,000 Greater Victoria students will come at 8 p.m. today when graduation ceremonies are held in four major high schools.

This year, for the first time, the functions will be officially described as "recognition" ceremonies because the students will not know whether or not they have passed their examinations.

* * *

The ceremonies are being held to honor students expected to graduate and for that reason Greater Victoria school board suggested the change of name.

Recognition ceremonies will be held at Esquimalt High School, Mount View High School, Oak Bay High School and Victoria High School.

* * *

In a letter to parents, sent through high school principals, the school board has warned it will accept no responsibility for private parties but a number of private parties have been planned to celebrate the event in traditional style.

At Victoria High School 337 students will file into the auditorium at 8 p.m. to be presented to the audience of parents and friends.

Guest speaker will be Dr. H. L. Campbell, a former deputy minister of education. Valedictorian will be Gail Wall.

Following the ceremony a dance and supper will be held in the school gymnasium.

* * *

Because of provincial fire regulations, spectators at Oak Bay High School's ceremony will be admitted by special invitation only.

The class of 250 students will march into the auditorium at 8 p.m. to music by the school band under the direction of K. A. Eames.

Prof. Roger J. Bishop of Victoria University will be guest speaker and Robert Hall will be class valedictorian.

* * *

At Mount View High School 150 students will take part in the ceremony. The valedictory address will be given by Lynne Thompson and guest speaker will be Arnold Webb, deputy minister of public works.

Following the ceremony there will be a small reception between 9 and 9:45 p.m., followed by a dance in the school gymnasium.

* * *

Reeve A. C. Wurtele will take part in the ceremony at Esquimalt High School where 160 students will be honored.

Guest speaker will be Col. William Symons, curator of the B.C. Maritime Museum. Valedictorian will be Ken Jones. A dance and supper will be held following the ceremony.

Recognition Ceremonies Tonight

Oak Bay

Tea Party Includes Celebration

A giant celebration in Windsor Park, Saturday, July 16, will centre around Oak Bay's second annual Anniversary Tea Party.

Donald Whyte, president of the Oak Bay Board of Trade which sponsors the tea party, last night said Saturday's events in the park will be followed by water sports at the Oak Bay Marina Sunday.

RIDES FOR CHILDREN

Windsor Park will be turned into a great play area on the Saturday, with amusement rides for children, a band concert, refreshment stands, bingo and other games.

A tea party, central feature of the celebration, will go on from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

ANNUAL SWIM

Sunday's special events at the marina will include the annual swim from Jimmy Chicken Island and fishing derbies for both youngsters and adults. The celebration will end with a sunset program at Willows Park.

Cordova Bay Principal Honored

An overflow crowd Thursday said goodbye to F. J. Willway who is retiring as principal of Cordova Bay School after a 37-year education career.

Former students and their parents, Saanich school board members, supervisory staff, Cordova Bay teachers and former teachers, and many others attended a farewell party given by the Cordova Bay Parent-Teacher Association at McMorran's Pavilion.

His career began in ungraded schools in Whaletown, B.C., Lumby, B.C., and Copper Mountain, B.C., before he moved to Vancouver Island to become principal of Langford and Happy Valley schools.

For the past 13 years he has held principal's posts in Saanich and the final seven at Cordova Bay.

Radio Hookup Urged With New Harbor Tug

Fire wardens committee recommended yesterday that city council install a two-way radio hookup with the fire department aboard the new harbor tug Island Rodney which is to go into service shortly. Cost to the city will be $990.

Ald. Austin Curtis said without the radio the tug would be useless as a fireboat. It will be used to call the craft to the scene of a waterfront blaze and by the fire chief to control seaborne operations.

Two other harbor tugs, Island Comet and Island Trooper are similarly fitted out.

At Drive-In

Man Hired to Cut Noise

Repeated complaints from nearby residents of noise originating in an Oak Bay Avenue drive-in have prompted the operator to offer to hire a commissionaire for duty Friday and Saturday nights.

Ald. Lily Wilson said Thursday it would be done over a two-month trial period to see if the presence of a man in uniform would reduce noise between 9 p.m. and 1 a.m. on the two busiest nights of the week.

PLAN ENDORSED

The proposal was endorsed by the city's health and welfare committee which has been investigating complaints from residents over a period of months.

City manager C. C. Wyatt said the operators of the A & W drive-in were quite willing to experiment with a commissionaire but showed little optimism that a marked improvement in the noise would result.

A sound measuring device, now on order by the city, could be used to determine day and nighttime sound levels for comparison purposes, Mr. Wyatt said. This could lead to regulations setting standards of noise permitted.

The lands committee recommended to city council that the city-owned Mountain View home property be subdivided into four apartment sites. Oak Bay council recently signified its willingness to rezone the property for apartments up to six storeys.

The committee also proposed sale of property at 555 Cormorant to the Chinese Hospital Society at a price of $12,500.

Nearly 2,000 Attend Sunset D-Day Rites

Nearly 2,000 people attended last night's sunset ceremony on the lawn of the legislative buildings, marking the 19th anniversary of D-Day.

Alderman A. W. Toone inspected the band and guard and presented a swagger stick to Pte. Peter Moran, judged the smartest soldier on parade. Lt.-Col. M. W. E. Allen assisted in the inspection.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: The widow who lives next door is a woman in her 40s. She is pleasant but we have never said anything more than "Good morning," or "Good evening" to one another.

Our dining room window faces her bedroom window. Whenever my husband sees her bedroom light go on he rushes into the dining room and starts to play solitaire. The woman never pulls her shades down. She would have to be blind not to see my husband facing her window, taking everything in.

I have never said a word to him about this because I don't want to make an issue of it. He is 73, and definitely over the hill so far as romance is concerned. I hope I have made myself clear. Any suggestions would be appreciated.—OLD DUFFER'S WIFE.

Dear Wife: Don't just sit there like a clam with a broken hinge. Tell him you are wise and that you hope he is enjoying his second childhood.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm not dictating this letter to my secretary because she is out to lunch. But I'm so burned up I can't wait until she returns, so please excuse the mistakes.

I have telephoned my wife 11 times this morning at 15-minute intervals. The line is still busy. This has happened to me before. Once I got so mad I sent her a telegram and told her to get off the telephone. On another occasion I asked the operator to cut in but she said her supervisor wouldn't let her cut in unless it was an emergency. I told her it WAS an emergency, that somebody was going to get shot. It didn't work.

Tell me, Ann Landers, how can a person gabble on about clothes, recipes, kids, gossip and other trivia hour after hour after hour? Don't their mouths get dry? Don't their arms get tired from holding the receiver?

Will you help me pressure the telephone company into an automatic shut-off after seven minutes? That's enough yakking for anybody. Thank you. —RUSS.

Dear Russ: Sorry, but you'll have to get help somewhere else. To some women the telephone is useful therapy. They are stuck at home with kids, diapers, housework, cooking and laundry. Yakking on the horn is the most fun they have.

Why don't you ask your wife to free up the phone every hour on the hour for 10 minutes and then you'll be sure to get her.

Author Says:

Constant Carefulness Produces Inner Tension

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — The "be careful, you'll fall" warning of a parent to a child often starts a pattern of caution which ties in and binds all through life, says Mrs. Aldous Huxley.

"If we have been careful since childhood, by the age of 30 we will probably be very careful and by 40 we are extremely careful," she continues. "Unless we do something about it each year, the habit and the suggestion become more firmly implanted and we become more restricted in body and mind."

Mrs. Huxley, reddish-haired, blue-eyed wife of the famous author, now has turned writer herself, producing sort of an instant therapy called "You Are Not the Target." It is a compilation of 30 "recipes" for everyday living and loving and coping with problems from fear and frustration to love and understanding of others.

"I used the term 'recipes' because I didn't want to get into the constant areas of religion or psychoanalysis," said Mrs. Huxley in an interview.

"And I wanted something that would help us right now. The recipes are for the well as well as for the not so well. But one does not need to be sick to get better. All of us are much vaster in our capacities than we think."

Mrs. Huxley, born in Turin, Italy, is a certified psychologist and said she had done a lot of work in psychotherapy. But she's convinced psychotherapy must be combined with physical activity to be most effective. "You can't divorce the body from the mind," she contends.

That is why every "recipe" carries suggestions for physical activity as well as mental. "Go into a room by yourself. Put on your favorite music. Throw off your clothes and dance. The goal of this dance is not art, the goal is personal freedom" is one example.

Mrs. Huxley said the title of her work, for which her husband wrote the foreword, comes from her belief that most of the time when you're being bombarded by somebody's bad temper or viciousness, you're not the target at all. You just happen to be in the way of an outburst caused by some other irritation.

One section is called "to hell with caution (specially dedicated to those over 40)." "I'm not saying we can live without caution," said Mrs. Huxley. "It is necessary for survival. I darned well better be cautious when I cross Fifth Avenue.

"But being too careful, being constantly afraid, suspicious, secretive — these feeling patterns produce a continuous inner tension (which) constricts the circulation of ideas, of feelings . . ."

"Habitual caution ties and binds us; it is as if we were dressed always in clothes and shoes that were several sizes too small," said Mrs. Huxley.

She suggested that the watchful parent fearful of a child's safety should use good good sense in choosing where and when the child could run freely. Then let him. "The minor bumps and bruises are a learning experience," she said.

Mrs. Huxley said young people are overly cautious today and that any changes a person wants to make are easier to make at 20 than at 40. "But 40 is a good age for re-birth, for re-examination, for re-questioning, for renewal. If from the renewal any change is made, that is good."

Mrs. Huxley, five feet five inches tall and a lithe 110 pounds, had careers as a concert violinist and film cutter for a Hollywood studio before s' married Aldous Huxley in 1956. The couple live in Los Angeles.

She summed up her approach to living this way: "Do moment by moment what is best. There are brakes . . . the fears, the mores . . . but try to be very, very free.

"Don't limit yourself as long as you don't hurt anyone—or yourself."

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Eilers, 2968 Leigh Road, Langford Lake, announce the forthcoming marriage of their younger daughter, Eleanor Jean, to Mr. Bart Peter Reemeyer, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Bart Reemeyer, West Vancouver. The wedding will take place July 26, at 8 p.m., in Canadian Memorial United Church, Vancouver, with Rev. T. T. Oliver officiating. Miss Eilers is a graduate in piano from the Royal Conservatory of Music, Toronto, and in education from the University of British Columbia, where she is affiliated with Kappa Alpha Theta. Mr. Reemeyer also attended the University of British Columbia, where he was affiliated with Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity. Later he did graduate work in business administration at the University of California, Berkeley.—(Fred S. Schiffer, Vancouver)

Automation Creates Homemaker Problems

WASHINGTON (CP) — A prominent Canadian educationist today suggested automation has so revolutionized home life that a girl needs more than a mother's advice to make the best use of new market products and new foods.

"It is difficult indeed for the young homemaker to learn from her mother how to cope with the many new market products as well as with the new and complex problems created by a rapidly changing world," said Dr. Margaret McCready, dean of Macdonald Institute, Guelph, Ont., in a speech before the World Food Congress today.

"The comparatively recent changes in home life due to automation are even more revolutionary than was woman's new-found political and educational freedom in the last 50 years . . .

"We are in an era of unparalleled need for widely available consumer education for both men and women. It is essential that their aspirations and work will join to achieve the proper balance between production and use of all natural resources, including the most important, human resources."

Her statements were included in the text of her speech issued to the press before delivery.

Advice For the Bride

By HELEN FARMELEE

TORONTO (TNS) — Every bride is beautiful. At least her mother, father, new in-laws, wedding guests—and especially her husband — will inevitably think she is.

It's not hard for a young woman to create an aura of beauty on Her Day when she has the advantages of an inner radiance . . . the femininity of a soft cloud of veiling about her face . . . the drama of a sweeping white train.

But what makes some brides lovelier than others on the day that each girl strives to look her very best?

THE SAME

I talked to a bridal consultant, hair stylist, make-up expert and photographer . . . and they all said essentially the same thing:

To be her most beautiful, a bride must not be too heavily made up, too dramatically coiffed, too fussily dressed.

Hair stylist Max of Joseph Bobyk insists that a bride's coiffure should be classical rather than high fashion, "so her wedding day pictures can be brought out in 40 years and she won't look ridiculous.

FOREVER

"Don't wear a hairdo of the moment," he advises. "We hope the marriage will be forever!"

The hair should look brushed, shining, soft, and natural, he says.

The best length for a bride's hair, according to Max, is medium, just shorter than shoulder length. Don't wear bangs, he says, because they're apt to hide your face.

Two suitable styles he suggests are a broken page-boy and a slight flip-up at the ends. If you wear a coronet headdress, your hair can be coiffed to fit into the coronet, or you can sit an extra hair-piece on top to accomplish the same effect.

Have your hair styled the day before the wedding or the morning of the wedding (if you can spare the time). Hairdressing has improved to such an extent, you can emerge from a salon with a soft, natural look rather than a stiff, "set" look. Make sure you have a hairdo dress rehearsal the week before so you'll know exactly how it will turn out on The Day.

Don't wear glasses, even if you normally wear them all the time, says Max—"just smile at everybody!"

On your wedding day, your photograph will be taken more times than all the snapshots you've accumulated since childhood, so your makeup must be flawless.

"Her makeup should be natural, with everything played down for a subtle effect. Don't wear more makeup than you normally wear, even if you wear very little. You're a bride, not a glamor girl! You don't want to be what you're not, or you won't feel your best.

Eleanor suggests a makeup routine for a bride to follow before she dons her dress. But make sure you experiment with this routine before the important day. Leave plenty of time to do it. And put your makeup on in front of a window so you'll see the effect in daylight, she says.

Start with an astringent to close pores and give your face a tingling feeling. Then put on a protection lotion (moisturizer). Next put on your colored base to give a lift to your skin tone or you'll look too drab all in white. Be sure to blend the base well, right down to the neckline of your dress. (The new "faint blush" look, which comes in the form of pink cream, can be applied before your base for a glowing look.)

Next comes a subtle touch of eye shadow (if you normally wear it) in a soft shade to match your eyes. Stay away from startling colors and apply it only to the lid, not up to the eyebrow.

POWDER

Set your make-up with an application of loose powder (again, right down to where your dress begins) and add a touch of rouge.

Pencil in your eyebrows, then put on some eyeliner (the new grey shades create a soft effect) but don't put it beneath your eyes or extend it past your upper lid. Wear this only if you're used to wearing it. Then, whether you normally wear mascara or not, put it on in several applications for a wide-eyed, dewy-eyed look.

Lastly, apply your lipstick, preferably a delicate shade of pink. To make it last through a day of kissing relatives, put on one coat, leave it on five minutes, blot, add a touch of powder, another coat of lipstick, leave five minutes and blot again.

A few dabs of perfume—not an exotic scent, a light floral fragrance—get into your gown and your headdress, and you're off for the most exciting day of your life.

Peep Holes Revealing

LONDON (AP)—The trend in female fashion has gone a step nearer nudity. To low necks, low backs and short skirts, British designers added the peep-hole dress for summer.

The novelty of this dress is a pair of peep-holes, about eight inches in diameter, on the side of the dress between armpit and hip.

With the peep-holes revealing a large slab of milday's side and ribs, this would seem to eliminate slips. At least full length slips.

Another new model has the peep-hole in the front of the dress. On this one, a modestly high bow—just under the chin—is cut away sharply to a provocative peep-hole scoop revealing a wide expanse of bosom.

Also catching on here is the port-hole style jerkin, which is said to be sweeping Sweden. This is a one-piece garment, a real shortie that stops about six to eight inches above the knee. It is sleeveless, of course, and it has peep-holes on the sides, but arranged side by side like giant eyes.

This dress eliminates slip, bra and imagination.

TV TALK

By JIM TAYLOR

This is so silly you'll think I'm kidding, but it's the truth.

There is actually a move afoot in NBC to have Dr. Gillespie of Dr. Kildare refer an occasional patient to Ralph Bellamy of Eleventh Hour.

"It's just the spot for our vacation—a place between Philadelphia and New York where they pick up 13 channels."

"Can't do a thing for you here, boy," Gillespie will say. "Better stop by Wednesday night at 10 and see the boys on Eleventh Hour. Great little bunch of head-shrinkers."

So the same patient will appear on two programs. If this is a trend, we're in trouble.

Suppose a man escapes a lynch mob on The Virginian, catches the Wagon Train, has his wounds tended by Ben Casey, is captured on Arrest and Trial, goes to either Perry Mason or Sam Benedict, is declared criminally insane, and spends the next few weeks getting treatment on Eleventh Hour?

One role for an actor could turn into a life's work. After Bellamy cures him, he would be forced to go rob a bank on Naked City to pay the bill, get caught on any one of the new detective shows, and be sentenced to 20 years on the Match Game panel.

FATHER KNOWS BEST
But mother will like this one, too, and even the kids will go for the separate bathrooms. No doubt father will fall for the mahogany etchwood and W-to-W carpet in den. Just look at that master bedroom, no crowding here—even a full wall closet. Junior bedroom and why it's a twin, too! And the vanity-colored bathroom, WOW! Now let's see the 14x20, picture window living room and the view of hills and skyline. No shutin, across-the-street feeling here, and separate family dining room, too. Last, but most important, a bright cheery kitchen with many cupboards and a breakfast area. Now for a look at the basement, 3-pce plumbing and a plastered bedroom; full cement basement, dr-in garage and a more-than-adequate O-O-M plant. Grab the phone, the price is right—

Ramp, Wharf

City Asks Removal Of Levies

The city has asked the department of transport to remove a recently imposed $100 annual charge on Fishermen's Wharf and James Bay Anglers' Association boat-launching ramp.

A copy of the letter explaining that the city already has a considerable overhead on both facilities, which are located on property leased from the crown, was sent to Victoria Liberal MP David Gross.

A city hall spokesman said Wednesday that to date there has been no reply from Ottawa.

James Bay Anglers, which previously paid $1 a year for a city licence to operate the ramp, built with voluntary labor and used by the community this year was asked to pay $101.

BILL PAID

The association this week paid the bill in full, officials said. The city makes a $50 annual grant to JBAA.

City manager C. C. Wyatt said an earlier DOT request was for 15 per cent of the gross take from city operated floats at Fishermen's wharf.

The city pointed out that this would amount to more than $700 on a facility that has consistently lost money in recent years and the federal department substituted the present $100 "nominal payment."

The Fishermen's Wharf operation lost $2,200 in 1961; the city's deficit climbed to $2,700 in 1962, and there is a forecast deficit for this year of $1,800.

MUST MAKE RETURN

The official explanation for the payment on all facilities coming under the DOT was that the department must make some return on its substantial investment.

The boat launching ramp at Clover Point won't be subject to a similar $100 fee because the city has a 99-year lease on the property.

U.S. Customs Rule

Visitors Must Tell Full Price

Whatever they may have heard, U.S. visitors to Canada returning to the U.S. still are required to declare the full price they paid for articles they bought in Canada.

But for articles sold generally to the public which the visitor bought at the full retail price, U.S. customs officers have been authorized to reduce the full retail price by 40 per cent in arriving at a value for customs purposes.

CHECKS REPORTS

William Hawkins, commissioner of the Victoria Visitors' Bureau, got this information from the U.S. customs bureau in Seattle when he checked various reports of a discount for U.S. visitors who have bought articles in Canada.

A letter from the customs bureau said customs officers have been authorized to use the standard 40 per cent discount, "except in some cases, to arrive at a value, essentially a wholesale price, for customs purposes, applicable only to the full retail price of articles sold generally to the public."

SEVERE PENALTIES

The letter warns there are severe penalties for failing to declare the full purchase price, and says customs officers have been authorized to reduce the full retail price 60 per cent whether or not the articles accompany the purchaser.

"The full discount is not to be allowed if the declarant acquired the articles at less than the full retail price. The full purchase price of articles made especially to order for the tourist for which he places orders while abroad, such as tailor-made wearing apparel, normally is the value for customs purchases.

SPECIAL CAR RULES

"Automobiles purchased abroad which are to be brought back to the United States for personal use, whether or not used abroad, will be valued in accordance with special instructions depending on the make, year, condition, use and other factors.

"The result generally will be a substantial reduction from the full retail price."

Court Parade

Naked Dancer Fined

A young man who, according to testimony, was "putting on a performance" in a near-naked state was fined $50 in Saanich magistrate's court yesterday.

Witness Robert G. Lavoie, 1017 McKenzie, told police he was motoring along Saanich Road near Falmouth around 8 p.m. when he first saw the accused, Wayne Orrick, 598 Viewfield Road, doing "some sort of swivelling dance" for a mixed audience of "about six to 10 people". He said Orrick was naked except for a knitted sweater.

OFFERED COAT

"I called him over and identified myself as a peace officer, said Mr. Lavoie. "I told him the police could put him away for this. I told him I had a spare coat in my car if he wanted it." Mr. Lavoie said when the accused came toward him he had the sweater draped over his arm and was completely naked, except for a chain around his neck.

Mr. Lavoie said the accused started swearing at him and made a "pass" at him. "I didn't want to cause any more embarrassment so I left and went to the police station," he said.

FOUND BEHIND HOUSE

Saanich police Cpl. Frank Briers testified when he arrived at the 3835 Saanich Road he found the accused wearing a blanket at the back of the house. He was charged with committing an indecent act.

Orrick said he and three friends went for a drive in the Shawnigan Lake area and he was pushed in a creek during some horseplay when the four were helping a stranded motorist.

FRIENDS TOOK BLANKET

He said he took off his clothes and covered himself with a blanket. When they arrived back at Saanich Road his friends pulled the blanket off him when he got out of the car. He was trying to get it back when Mr. Lavoie arrived. He said he had a beer which he took from the car.

Orrick denied being naked at any time.

RAN FROM POLICE

Magistrate William Ostler said he accepted Lavoie's testimony. He said Orrick ran and hid when he saw the police car.

"That is not the conduct of anyone who is innocent," he said. "I realize this is not intended as a criminal act."

He said the story was quite plain—the boys had been drinking too much beer.

Wild driving in which tire burns up to 108 feet long were left on the road cost a young Saanich man $75 on a careless driving charge and resulted in an additional fine of $20 for being a minor in possession of liquor.

Crown Prosecutor Murphy told the court a car driven by Patrick Currier, 1526 Arrow, pulled into a driveway at 4343 Majestic Drive to pick up two youths.

Currier pulled out and backed into a driveway on the opposite side of the street, then took off scattering gravel 40 feet up on the lawn and leaving a tire burn of 108 feet.

Slowing up for an intersection at Kenmore and Majestic the accused left a further 100-foot tire burn and in turning the corner he left another 100-foot tire burn when accelerating. According to witnesses, the car was "fishtailing" after the turn.

When the accused said he needed his driver's licence for his work magistrate Ostler's answer was a prompt "No."

* * *

Robert G. West, 18, who came up for sentence in city magistrate's court on a charge of attempted breaking and entering was told he was facing a desperately serious crisis. "You have to make up your mind whether to cut this out right now or whether to continue on and lead a miserable life," Magistrate Ostler said.

He said West was lucky that a family had offered to take him in, provide a home environment and find him a job.

West was put on a $500 bond to keep the peace for two years.

He was charged with attempted breaking and entering of Oak Bay Building Supply, 1920 Oak Bay Avenue.

BACKGROUND

By STEPHEN COULTER
from Paris

The conditions under which many are eking out an existence in Marseilles are already appalling—some are sleeping in cellars and others 12 or 15 to a room—and the plight of the majority will become even worse when the government's subsistence allowance ceases at the end of June and they become penniless.

* * *

Their future is now causing official alarm in Marseilles. Under the initiative of the Ministry of Repatriates, 400 official and private social workers have begun to take an emergency census of distressed families in the district.

Funds raised by the Red Cross and church charities, who have already provided $10,000 for aid, are practically exhausted. The charity committee has sent out an SOS for help.

* * *

Between 40,000 and 50,000 more refugees are expected to flood into the Marseilles area in the next six weeks and emergency reception centres at the airport and docks are being re-organized to cope with them.

One reason for this influx is that many of the refugees have failed to find work or to settle down in other parts of France. Others have thrown up jobs in the north to be with other ex-Algerians.

All Help Ends June 30

The government is, of course, blamed by many for this situation. In spit of fact that it has subscribed generously towards the upkeep of these people although they supported repeated revolts against the state. It has been providing for the upkeep of practically all the 1,200,000 refugees since last summer.

When they arrived they were given lump sums of up to $1,800 for a family with three children, plus ordinary family allowances and subsistence allowance of $20 a week. For 80 per cent of the 70,000 in the Marseilles area this will end on June 30.

* * *

Refugee families already living in squalor are threatened with being thrown on the street because they cannot pay the rent of their cramped quarters. One family of four young children and a grandmother is living in a washhouse. The father has gone back to Algeria to work to provide for them. The mother is in hospital paralyzed. The grandmother cannot find the $12 week's rent for lodgings.

Some 65 per cent of the refugees are living in misery, according to the government critics. Several thousand are no longer receiving any state aid and some of these, including partly disabled, are sleeping at nights in Salvation Army hostels.

* * *

In the Bouches-du-Rhone department alone there are some 1,000 mothers, each with several children, who will be left without resources when the state aid stops on June 30.

Concern at UN

By CARMAN CUMMING

For more than 12 years the assembly has been gaining power as its membership doubled. The veto-cramped Security Council has declined in importance.

Now members are asking themselves whether they can ignore the international facts of life that put the veto in the hands of the five permanent council members in the first place.

Specifically, can the scores of smaller nations in the 111-member assembly hope to effect peace-keeping measures if the United States or Russia are seriously opposed.

As Indonesia's L. N. Palar put it this week, the veto was given originally to the five members that were considered powerful enough to frustrate UN action. The phrase "unanimity among the permanent members" was merely a polite euphemism for an ugly reality.

* * *

Now, he said, the power to frustrate the UN lay principally with two members. He wondered what the U.S. would do if it found itself in the "isolated" position the Soviet Union now occupies.

Without actually stating it, the Indonesian reflected fear that the assembly, rich in votes but poor in actual power, might become a debating society passing resolutions it has no hope of enforcing—while the big powers simply bypassed the UN in dealing with crises.

* * *

As far back as 1950 the "uniting for peace" resolution, backed by the U.S., in effect provided that the assembly could take over the Security Council's peace-keeping powers when a veto prevented the council from acting.

The principle was strengthened in the Suez crisis of 1956 when the UN Emergency Force was set up by the assembly without Security Council action.

* * *

In the case of the Congo, the Soviet Union actually voted in the council to send a UN force, but later condemned it as "illegal" because the late secretary-general Dag Hammarskjold had allegedly violated council directives.

* * *

Experts Paint Alarming Picture

World May Become One Big City

By JAMES McGUNIGAL

Illinois Professor Dr. Henry Von Foerster predicts mathematically that world population is going to reach infinity, a number too large to count, in the year 2026.

● We have been God-like in our planned breeding of our domesticated plants and animals, but we have been rabbit-like in our unplanned breeding of ourselves.—Arnold Toynbee.

If man doesn't blow himself up, it appears he is going to squeeze himself to death in 63 years.

A more probable estimate is that of British historian Arnold Toynbee who predicts world population will be 25,000,000,000 within 100 years. By that time, he says, the world will be One Big City.

At this rate, even without hordes of Americans and Orientals, Europeans, Indians, Europeans, Indians, Africans pouring in on us, Canada will have a population of more than 200,000,000.

* * *

Toynbee sees the last patches of countryside already disappearing around Tokyo, New York, London and other great population centres.

Architect Constantine Doxiades, of Athens, viewing the population phenomenon, has started a new science, ekistics, which is concerned with the lack of psychological effects of the lack of green areas and the monotony of buildings on people.

* * *

Man, it appears, may bore himself to death or drive himself crazy before the squeezing starts.

Certainly, it is clear that, apart from an immediate nuclear war, population pressure is the major crisis in our lives. And by its hugeness it affects us in ways as new to us as radio, television, air travel and the exploration of space.

* * *

Consider that it took a million years from the dawn of man to the birth of Christ for world population to reach 250,000,000—and 18½ centuries after that for it to pass the first billion.

The second billion was reached in 1930 and the third billion last year.

Town and regional planners warn that man who evolved through millions of years as a tree animal isn't built for the one-big-city world predicted within 100 years by Toynbee. They explain that man only recently monkeyed his way out of the jungle into language, civilization and space travel.

* * *

All the experts warn that since the industrial revolution man has been rapidly working his way into a steel and concrete jungle — that already threatens the balance of nature and his mental and emotional health.

The monotony, noise, pollution and artificiality of our modern cities can be painful, stress-producing and more cancer-causing than cigarette smoking, medical authorities have said.

But builders out for dollars, planners hamstrung by budgets, architects enslaved by technology and machines, are grinding out the same old patterns with exhausting regularity.

Will Peru Vote End Junta Rule?

By PHIL NEWSOM

Peru conducts an important experiment in democracy on Sunday when 2,000,000 Peruvian voters select a new president, two vice-presidents and the total membership of Congress after nearly a year of military rule.

But thi ais not the only reason the election is important. It ais owill test the good intent of the military rulers who have promised that it will be free.

* * *

Haya de la Torre, founder and leader of Péru's American Popular Revolutoinary Action party, has spent years in exile and more years in hiding out from Peruvian police in the Colombian embassy in Lima.

He is considered a leftist of the same school as President Romulo Betancourt of Venezuela and Preident Juan Bosch of the Dominican Republic.

* * *

In Peru, he is suspect by the military and right wing political groups, and prior to last year's elections, military leaders had vowed publicly that if elected he never would be permitted to take office.

* * *

In fact, all major candidates are the same as a year ago. The other two are Fernando Belaunde Terry, a professor of architecture and enthusiastic explorer of Peru's Andes mountains and jungles, and former president Manuel Prado.

U.S. Liners Fly Again Over Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP) — The state department announced today that U.S. commercial airliners will be allowed to fly over Cuba for the first time since the October missiles crisis.

The United States had imposed restrictions on flights by U.S. airlines at that time. Cuba never formally acted to bar the flights.

The department noted that airlines of other countries have been flying across Cuba for the last several months without incident.

"Our judgment is that the risks to safety of such overflights to U.S. carriers are minimum," a department announcement said.

Business Questions Hiring of Specialists

By FORBES RHUDE

Business apparently isn't quite sure what kind of people it should hire as future executive material, and swings rather uncertainly between general and specialist training.

R. H. Keefler of Montreal, speaking at this week's annual meeting of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, commented:

"In spite of all the personnel interviewing techniques we have developed, I sometimes wonder if business really knows what qualities it wants—or, if it does, can it recognize these qualities? People have a habit of unintentionally concealing their good qualities it wants—or, if it does, intentionally conceal their weaknesses."

* * *

Keefler, who is president of Northern Electric Co. Ltd., said that in practice business tends to seek specialists, because it knows how to use specialists in the early years of employment.

Later on, it frequently finds itself in the position of having to select managers from men who were originally hired as specialists, but in whom it now is seeking traits associated with a much broader background.

"One of the results," Mr. Keefler continued, "is that universities are asking business why it hesitates to hire liberal arts and business administration graduates, but insists on sending men back to university for broadening courses in these subjects later on in their careers."

* * *

Leo Teplow, assistant vice-president, American Iron and Steel Institute, New York, illustrated the difficulties of arriving at conclusions through surveys.

A research project in the 1920s tried to determine what level of lighting would produce the best results in a certain operation employing girls. The result:

When light intensity was increased, production went up. But it also rose in the control group in which light intensity was unchanged. Later, when light intensity was decreased, production again went up; and it continued to rise so long as the girls involved could make out the work they were engaged in.

* * *

Production also continued to rise in the control group in which lighting was not changed.

As a purely physical experiment, Mr. Teplow commented, it was a failure, and the researchers never did find out what was the best level of lighting.

"But," he added, "they did discover something of far greater importance. The reason production went up was that the girls knew that management at all levels was very much concerned about them. They felt they had become important. And they responded by demonstrating how well they could produce."

* * *

Mr. Teplow said some of the lessons of this early research haven't yet been completely digested. He said sometimes success of a certain technique in winning employee participation leads to the technique itself being regarded as a panacea, "when actually it was the existence of a philosophy of employee participation — regardless of the mechanism used—that was responsible for improvement."

Mantle Out Five Weeks

NEW YORK (AP)—A second examination of Mickey Mantle's left foot Thursday showed that the New York Yankee's $100,000 outfielder will be out of the lineup "a minimum of five weeks."

Dr. Sydney Gaynor, club physician, made the examination after the player was brought here from Baltimore, where his left foot was hurt Wednesday night when the spikes of his shoe caught in a wire fence while he was chasing a home run by Brooks Robinson.

"Mantle has an undisplaced slightly oblique fracture of the third metatarsal, with fragments in excellent alignment," Dr. Gaynor said. "Fortunately, he suffered no other injury."

The all-star game is scheduled to be played in Cleveland July 9.

Cubs Take First On Cliff-Hanger

Amazing, if temporary, things have been the rule this major league season but nothing has been more amazing than the Chicago Cubs, a club which last season wound up in ninth place in the National League with a 59-103 record and 42½ games out of first place.

Yesterday, the storybook Cubs came up with a story-book finish to become part of a three-way scramble at the top of the tables by making it five straight and 11 out of 13 with a series-sweeping 10-inning, 3-2 win over San Francisco Giants.

Lindy McDaniel, 28-year-old righthanded relief pitcher who appears to have recovered his old-time form this season after being traded to the Cubs by St. Louis Cardinals, will probably always look on Thursday, June 6, as the most memorable day of his career.

He was hurried into the game in the ninth inning with the score 2-2, the bases loaded, one out and dangerous Ed Bailey at the plate. He got one strike on Bailey, then nailed Willie Mays off second base for the second out.

THE BIG BLAST

Then McDaniel proceeded to strike out Bailey and make further pitching unnecessary by hitting Billy Pierce's fifth pitch in the 10th inning for a home run.

It was only the second home run of McDaniel's major league career, which dates back to 1955. To make it count, the Cubs tied the score on two pitches with two out in the eighth inning. Ken Hubbs hit a double and Billy Williams hit the next pitch for a home run to ruin things for Juan Marichal, who had a four-hit shutout at the time and looked unbeatable.

THREE-WAY TIE

Defeat was the eighth for the Giants in the last 11 games, and it left them in a first-place tie with the Cubs and St. Louis Cardinals, who squeezed by Philadelphia Phillies, 5-4. An eighth-inning double by pinch-hitter George Altman provided what proved to be the winning run.

Meanwhile, Baltimore Orioles regained the American League lead by taking the series decider, 4-2, from New York Yankees, scoring two eighth-inning runs on singles by Brooks Robinson and Jim Gentile.

With first-baseman Joe Pepitone substituting in centrefield for the injured Mickey Mantle, the Yankees almost lost Jim Bouton. The young righthander, who started with a 7-1 record, was felled in the fourth inning when hit on the face by a line drive from Jackie Brandt's bat.

He was taken to hospital for a sewing job which required 12 stitches but it is believed he will be able to take his next turn.

Mickey's Medical History

1947—As a 16-year-old high school football player in Oklahoma, afflicted with osteomyelitis, a bone disease, in the left ankle and shin. The disease has been arrested, but Mantle still takes periodic injections and plays with the leg heavily taped.

1963—Suffered a rib cage injury in spring training, reinjured rib cage in second game of the season and missed 10 games before Wednesday's mishap.

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

Despite repeated rumors of spectacular trades in the offing, the annual National Hockey League meeting was a dullish affair. Montreal Canadiens, Detroit Red Wings and New York Rangers shifted a fairish amount of personnel but the seven-player deal between Canadiens and Rangers was the only one of any consequence. And the chief interest there may be that it could possibly settle two old arguments—did Plante win the Vezina Trophy six times only because he was fortunate enough to be with Canadiens when they were at their best and is Worsley as good as he has looked over the seasons with the defence-weak Rangers?

Most agree the Rangers got the better of the deal, a view reportedly endorsed by Toe Blake, who is said to have felt so strongly about it that there are now reports that he may not consent to return as coach. After all, Don Marshall is a fine two-way player and Phil Goyette has shown that he can be quite useful when he has an injury-free season.

Only Dave Balon, and he is not yet past the boderline stage, of the three forwards Canadiens got in return looks like he may make it as a regular for his new club. Leon Rochefort and Len Ronson so far have looked no more than farm-club material.

However, for most fans the interesting part of the deal is the Plante-Worsley exchange. Can Plante prove he can star on a weaker club than he has been accustomed to and can Worsley prove that he can perform the heroics for a contender that he performed for a trailer?

Just why Plante should be tagged by so many as having built a reputation because he spent so many seasons with the best club in the NHL is something that has escaped me. It must be because he is a bit of a show-boat and that there would appear to be some substance to a prevailing opinion that he is addicted to hypochondria and self-interest. There should be no reasonable doubt about bona-fide ability in the seasons he won the Vezina Trophy—six in all.

Plante did play for Canadiens when they were dominant, but I believe he was one of the very big reasons they were dominant for so long. Canadiens got over the loss of Doug Harvey and Maurice Richard without tumbling and it's just as reasonable to presume that the club slipped after Plante did as it is to think that the club slipped first and thereby exposed Plante as something less than great.

Worsley's case is different. During his many NHL seasons the Rangers were only once a real contender and as goalkeepers with the have-nots often do, he looked better than his supporting cast. The rap against him was that he sometimes played badly on the too-few occasions his club played well but there is no question that when he was right, which was often, Worsley was the most spectacular goalkeeper in the NHL. He was often faulted for easy-looking goals scored when he was flat on the ice but it was also true that most of the time he had just made a save no one could have reasonably expected him to make.

What Worsley and Plante do next season will be used to settle many an argument, but both are 34 and it may be too late for definite proof. But both have been provided with an incentive which calls for submersion of their individualistic tendencies and the likelihood is that both will prove what should have been evident to all who have watched them play—that they are exceptionally-gifted goalkeepers.

Adverse Air Currents

Early Flyers Wreck Sleep

By MARGARET TREBETT

ALBERNI — Light sleepers have placed many complaints during the past few weeks as members of this year's flying classes have put in their required hours in the air.

Gordon Garrett of B.C. Aero Club, instructor of the eight-man class, said that, apart from the frequent complaints from city residents, the course has gone exceedingly well. Each member has put in about 70 hours flying time and most of them have soloed.

★ ★ ★

"The proficiency rating of the class is high," he said. "All are doing very well."

Mr. Garrett explained that, because of the prevailing wind conditions, it is impossible to carry on instruction in the air during mid-day and, therefore, flying starts as early at 5 a.m.

The course laid out by the department of transport does not permit right turns and consequently, taking off from Somass field, the planes must fly over the residential area of the district.

Two dual-control Fleet 80's are used in the course being sponsored by Alberni Valley Flying Club. A minimum altitude of 1,000 feet is required as they fly over the cities.

Of the eight students who will qualify for licences, two will go into commercial flying and two others expect to own their own planes for business and pleasure.

The course will be completed in the second week of June and several people have already indicated their interest in signing up for training in 1964.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

Second prizes of $30 each were awarded, among others, to Alexander M. Dawes, 460 Monticlare, Victoria, and Robert W. Harrison, Campbell River.

Shortage of Land

New Wine Plan May Take Entire Strawberry Crop

By JACK FRY

A new strawberry wine to be produced in quantity this year by Growers Wine Co. Ltd. may take all the strawberries Saanich growers can produce and more besides.

Growers' Wine Co. Ltd., 3948 Quadra, a user of Saanich Peninsula loganberries for many years, has placed an order for 40 tons of strawberries from the Saanich Fruit Growers' Association.

NEW VENTURE

The firm intends to go into production of strawberry wine in 1963. Preliminary steps for the new venture were taken last year when five tons of strawberries were purchased for experimental purposes.

Saanich Peninsula growers, faced with increasing demands for their products, also found themselves short of land which they will need for an expanded berry business.

LAND VANISHING

Urban sprawl and subdivisions have swallowed up the land which could have been used to increase the farms, and now that growers have a ready market they are apt to find they cannot fill the demand.

Reeve R. Gordon Lee, of Central Saanich, where many of the area's strawberries are grown, predicted yesterday that production of strawberry wine by Growers' Wine Company will have "quite a big effect on our fruit growers out here."

BOOST ACREAGE

Many of the growers probably will increase their strawberry acreage because the wine company is reaching markets all over the world, he said.

But Herbert Bickford, general manager of the growers' association and the cold storage plant on Keating Cross Road, said the picture was not as rosy as Reeve Lee thought.

TOO MANY SUBDIVISIONS

"We have been trying to increase our acreage, but there is not the land here to increase berry crops. Too many subdivisions are coming in and taking up the land," he said.

Mr. Bickford's opinion has been shared by community planners here, who have warned time and time again that accelerated growth of Greater Victoria may someday spoil the rural atmosphere of the Saanich Peninsula.

NEW PERIOD

Anthony Roberts, director of the Capital Region Planning Board, said recently that "the Saanich Peninsula is entering a period of a new surge of development, and the people ultimately will have the choice of making this either a planned development or an unplanned development."

In other words, it will be up to the land owners themselves to decide whether strawberries or houses grow on the fertile, rolling fields of the Saanich Peninsula.

Court Going On Tape?

Testimony in city police court will be tape-recorded in future if a recommendation from finance committee is adopted by city council.

The committee approved purchase of a $4,700 tape machine for court use on recommendation of city manager C. C. Wyatt.

LAW CHANGED

Mr. Wyatt said efforts had been made over a period of several years to install sound-recording equipment for court use. But until one year ago, when the provincial legislation was changed to permit recordings of testimony, use of court stenographers was mandatory.

LEAVING JOB

The issue was revived this week with the announced intention of the present court reporter to leave her job by the end of the month, Mr. Wyatt said.

Vancouver uses five similar tape machines in its police courts and has found them satisfactory.

Lumbermen Become Forest Gardeners

By ERITH SMITH
Colonist Island Editor
(Last of two parts)

Logging operations on Vancouver Island show much better "housekeeping" than used to be the case.

In the old days—and they weren't so very long ago—loggers went into the forest, cut their trees chest-high, hauled away the good timber.

STUMPS LEFT

Behind them they left acres of lanky stumps and litter ranging from branches to scarred trunks.

"What a mess!" exclaimed passersby on the highways whenever they saw regions like this.

PULP ANSWER

Pulp provided the answer. Since the establishment of pulp and newsprint mills on the West Coast, the loggers have become first-rate housekeepers. Everything not usable for lumber may still have a market value as chips for pulp; and the logged-off areas are swept almost bare.

As part of the MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. intensified forestry program, the bare land is invaded almost at once—this time by foresters planting seedlings which, with close care, will provide a forest of even greater yield in another 80 or so years.

NOT FAST-GROWING

This week visiting newspaper and radio representatives being shown the new forestry program saw examples of this.

On plantations on opposite sides of a logging road were planted, in 1954, Ontario red pine and Douglas fir. So far, the red pine seems to be doing best, but the foresters say from now on the fir should catch up and outgrow the pine.

PINE DOING WELL

Fir seedlings (and trials indicate that good two-year-olds are the best) are planted right on the heels of the logging operations. That's not the end of the job.

WEAKLINGS CULLED

They're watched as a gardener might watch his prize roses. As they grow, weaklings are culled at a time when they may yet be marketed, to leave room for the strong trees to achieve full forest maturity or left to become mulch for their neighbors.

Visitors to the Ash River Valley were shown one stand in which about 2,000 trees per acre became established from 1954 to 1957 by natural seeding from surrounding trees.

This clearing has eliminated from 600 to 1,200 trees per acre, but this is no loss to the forest.

On the contrary, company foresters have estimated that, left alone, the overcrowded area would finally have yielded 9,800 cubic feet per acre of good lumber; cleared, the expected yield from 500 trees will be 11,300 cubic feet per acre.

Under its forest management licence, the company's responsibility is not just to cut trees to acquire lumber and pulp, but having cut to replace the forest with one which, in coming years, will be even richer.

The program will mean better, prolonged life not only for many British Columbia communities, but for thousands of British Columbia citizens.

Students Feted

A major turning point in the lives of almost 1,000 Greater Victoria students will come at 8 p.m. today when graduation ceremonies are held in four major high schools.

This year, for the first time, the functions will be officially described as "recognition" ceremonies because the students will not know whether or not they have passed their examinations.

* * *

The ceremonies are being held to honor students expected to graduate and for that reason Greater Victoria school board suggested the change of name.

Recognition ceremonies will be held at Esquimalt High School, Mount View High School, Oak Bay High School and Victoria High School.

* * *

In a letter to parents, sent through high school principals, the school board has warned it will accept no responsibility for private parties but a number of private parties have been planned to celebrate the event in traditional style.

At Victoria High School 337 students will file into the auditorium at 8 p.m. to be presented to the audience of parents and friends.

Guest speaker will be Dr. H. L. Campbell, a former deputy minister of education. Valedictorian will be Gail Wall.

Following the ceremony a dance and supper will be held in the school gymnasium.

* * *

Because of provincial fire regulations, spectators at Oak Bay High School's ceremony will be admitted by special invitation only.

The class of 250 students will march into the auditorium at 8 p.m. to music by the school band under the direction of E. A. Eames.

Prof. Roger J. Bishop of Victoria University will be guest speaker and Robert Hall will be class valedictorian.

* * *

At Mount View High School 150 students will take part in the ceremony. The valedictory address will be given by Lynne Thompson and guest speaker will be Arnold Webb, deputy minister of public works.

Following the ceremony there will be a small reception between 9 and 9:45 p.m., followed by a dance in the school gymnasium.

* * *

Reeve A. C. Wurtele will take part in the ceremony at Esquimalt High School where 160 students will be honored.

Guest speaker will be Col. William Symons, curator of the B.C. Maritime Museum. Valedictorian will be Ken Jones. A dance and supper will be held following the ceremony.

Tea Party Includes Celebration

A giant celebration in Windsor Park, Saturday, July 16, will centre around Oak Bay's second annual Anniversary Tea Party.

Donald Whyte, president of the Oak Bay Board of Trade which sponsors the tea party, last night said Saturday's events in the park will be followed by water sports at the Oak Bay Marina Sunday.

RIDES FOR CHILDREN

Windsor Park will be turned into a great play area on the Saturday, with amusement rides for children, a band concert, refreshment stands, bingo and other games.

A tea party, central feature of the celebration, will go on from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

ANNUAL SWIM

Sunday's special events at the marina will include the annual swim from Jimmy Chicken Island and fishing derbies for both youngsters and adults. The celebration will end with a sunset program at Willows Park.

Safety Meeting Postponed

NANAIMO—Eight Nanaimo residents Wednesday turned out for the local safety council meeting, with the result the election of officers had to be postponed.

"We just don't have enough people interested," complained council president John McBride. "Safety programs, all set and ready to go, will now have to be delayed."

Another meeting has been called for June 13, with the location yet to be decided. Mr. McBride said it is essential there should be a good attendance at this meeting as the extension of traffic safety into school grades above Grade 3 is being held up.

"We want new leadership and we don't care who gives it," said RCMP Cpl. John Urquhart.

Shun 'Variety Store'

Be Professional Druggists Told

NANAIMO (CP)—A leading Canadian pharmaceutical educationist says pharmacists cannot retain their professional status and operate "variety stores" at the same time.

J. L. Summers of Saskatoon said merchandising methods have been copied from competitors, resulting in a "low-priced image" of the profession.

ANNUAL MEETING

The second vice-president of the Canadian Pharmaceutical Association spoke Wednesday to the annual meeting of the B.C. branch. He is associate professor of pharmacy at the University of Saskatchewan and director of services at University Hospital.

He urged pharmacists to confine themselves to health needs, and if they weren't prepared to do so, they "should be required to close their dispensary and turn in their licence."

Tourist Total Even Better

NANAIMO (CP)—Tourist inquiries this year are 32½ per cent higher than last year, Recreation Minister Westwood told delegates to the 72nd annual meeting of the B.C. Pharmaceutical Association Wednesday.

"Last year tourism brought $145,000,000 to B.C.," Mr. Westwood said, "and so far we have only scratched the surface of the industry.

"Last year tourists came here from the Seattle fair and this year promises to be even better."

He said the government is putting on an intensive advertising campaign, with the main aim to keep Canadians in Canada for their vacation.

$450,000 Day School Planned by Catholics

DUNCAN — Tenders will be called this November for a $450,000 amalgamated Roman Catholic day school at Tzouhalem and Maple Bay roads for 100 Indian and 200 white pupils.

Working drawings will be started this month by a Vancouver firm, Gardiner, Thornton, Gaithe and Associates, and construction will start in January, 1964, to be completed by fall of the same year.

GRADE 4, JUNIOR HIGH

The Queen of Angels' School will accommodate elementary grades from Grade 4 and junior secondary grades. The Indian affairs branch of the department of citizenship and immigration will contribute $150,000.

The building fund of the Catholic groups here amounts to $25,350 and the rest will be raised through a long-term loan.

Besides the eight-classroom block, the new project will have an auditorium-gymnasium building with administration offices, cafeteria, kitchen, basketball and badminton courts, 250 permanent bleacher seats and an additional 600-seat capacity on the main floor, weekday chapel and sacristi, permanent altar for Sunday services, two rooms for resident priests, and a library.

BIG PARKING LOT

The project will also have a 100-car parking lot. The teaching staff will consist of four Sisters of St. Ann and two lay teachers. Grade 1 to Grade 3 pupils still will attend St. Ann's school after the new school has been completed.

A money-raising campaign of Cowichan Valley and Shawnigan Lake-Mill Bay parishes started in April, 1962.

Scientists Probe Wreck

NANAIMO—The wreck of the Western Producer is being probed underwater by two Nanaimo scientists.

Firm Wins Noise Case

NANAIMO—Nanaimo's anti-noise bylaw has been ruled ultra vires.

Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts, in handing down the decision in the case against the G. W. Dorman Pulp Chip Company, ensured the jobs of 22 men.

The dismissal of the charges followed an argument by defence lawyer Sid Clark who said the city has only the right to regulate noise, not to prohibit it.

The firm had been accused of contravening the bylaw by operating an evening shift involving 22 workers.

White Man Killed

Racial Clash Fatal

LEXINGTON, N.C. (AP) —A white man was killed and another was wounded here Thursday night during racial flare-ups. See Page 3.

The two men were shot as a cordon of police kept whites and Negroes separated on a side street.

PHOTOGRAPHER HIT

The shooting came after a group of Negroes unsuccessfully sought service at several downtown establishments and a crowd of whites gathered. Officers said there were minor clashes between the two groups.

NEAR CHURCH

The shooting occurred on a side street near a Negro church. The two groups were being kept apart by officers when several shots, apparently from a .22-calibre rifle, were fired from the direction of the Negroes, police said.

STANDING NEARBY

Another shot hit Link, who was standing nearby, in the head. He was taken first to Lexington Memorial Hospital but died en route to Baptist Hospital in Winston-Salem 25 miles away.

Officers said the Negroes appeared downtown and attempted to receive service at a theatre and bowling alley but were refused. However, they were served ice cream at a drug store.

The whites gathered and minor clashes broke out.

B.C. Aid Slow Starting

Ever wonder what happened to the Premier's Committee for World Relief and the British Columbia World Relief Fund?

Well, if you were one of the 1,800,000,000 hungry people in the world in 1960 when these two agencies came into being you'd know—you'd still be hungry.

Like the B.C. Highway Safety Advisory Committee which hasn't met for two or three years, the accomplishments of the Premier's Committee for World Relief are modest.

Premier Bennett announced the committee at a time when he was under editorial fire for having failed to respond to a federal pilot plan to bring 100 tubercular immigrant families to Canada from European refugee camps.

He had refused to open the door to the eight families which would have been B.C.'s share.

He berated the federal government for what he termed a token gesture to the refugees and said B.C. would take its share if the number was increased to 1,000 tubercular families.

Then he proposed a federal-provincial conference on the subject with the remark that provinces are called in "for talks on gopher poisons . . . why not a conference on this great problem?"

Japan to Upset Fisheries?

WASHINGTON (CP)—Japan threatened Thursday to upset Canada-United States fisheries in the North Pacific by demanding a more relaxed conservation program that would give the expanding Japanese fleet greater access to the halibut, salmon, herring and other fish that abound in the high seas off the North American shelf.

While Canada and the U.S. pleaded for retention of an existing 10-year fisheries convention under which Japan agrees to abstain from fishing in certain areas, Japan's deputy agriculture minister, Masayoshi Ito, called for termination of the convention and scrapping of the abstention formula.

FORMULA POINTS

Under this formula, Japan agrees not to fish for salmon in the eastern parts of the Pacific Ocean and to abstain from taking halibut and herring unless a known area is not already exploited by Canadian and American fishermen.

Japan recently was allowed to exploit halibut in the eastern Bering Sea and herring off the Queen Charlotte Islands of British Columbia.

STIFF ATTITUDE

Canadian Fisheries Minister Robichaud who had called for retention of the existing abstentions told a press conference later the initial Japanese attitude was "very stiff."

U.S. Interior Secretary Stewart Udall warned Japan that the U.S. considers the abstention clause an absolute essential and that great frictions might emerge if the convention is abandoned.

Robichaud was asked at the press conference whether the Soviet Union could be brought into the North Pacific Fisheries Conservation Convention to offset Japanese complaints that the Russians are not bound by any form of abstention.

He said he didn't believe negotiations with the Russians would prove satisfactory at this stage.

Canadians Going Deeper in Debt

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadians are consistent in at least one respect: They're still going deeper and deeper in debt.

Credit statistics released Thursday show Canadians now owe about 3½ times as much to the banks in the form of personal unsecured loans as they did in 1954.

Debts to department stores—on both charge and instalment accounts—have doubled in that period.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics estimates that the over-all amount outstanding in various kinds of consumer credit reached $3,664,000,000 at March 31, a rise of $301,000,000 in one year.

Hot Line Nearer Reality

GENEVA (AP)—U.S. and Soviet communications experts have reached full technical agreement on a hot line teletype circuit intended to prevent accidental war, it was disclosed Thursday.

The agreement has been accepted by the U.S. government and only Soviet government approval is still needed to start technical work on the unprecedented link.

The U.S. and Soviet delegates at the 17-nation disarmament conference and technicians from both sides put the final touches to the agreement at a two-hour meeting Tuesday.

U.S. Ambassador Charles C. Stelle and Soviet delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin, co-chairmen of the conference, will give the other delegations formal notice of their agreement as soon as Tsarapkin receives the go-ahead from Moscow.

They agreed existing telecommunications facilities should be used for the hot line, including an underwater trans-Atlantic cable between the United States and Britain. The use of existing cables could allow the circuit to go into operation in a matter of weeks, officials said.

★ ★ ★

The line will pass from London through Stockholm and Helsinki to Moscow. The British, Swedish and Finnish governments will be asked to provide the circuits but they will have no right to use the hot line.

Canada Makes It Official

WASHINGTON (CP) — Fisheries Minister Robichaud Thursday advised the United States that Canada's decision to extend her existing three-mile coastal fisheries boundary to 12 miles next year will not affect the historic or traditional U.S. pattern of fishing in Canadian waters.

★ ★ ★

He said also that he plans to amend Canadian fisheries regulations, probably next Monday, to allow Canadian draggers which currently cannot fish within 12 miles off Canadian shores to move in as close as three miles offshore.

OTTAWA (CP)—Former prime minister Diefenbaker said in the Commons Thursday night the new Liberal government decided to arm Canada's air forces in Europe "with offensive weapons" without consulting Parliament.

He said the decision was made before the NATO ministerial meeting last month in Ottawa and was then confirmed at the NATO meeting.

Mr. Diefenbaker, speaking as the Commons defence debate appeared to be nearing an end, apparently used the term "offensive weapons" on the basis of reports that Canada's CF-104 jet bombers would be armed with one-megaton nuclear bombs.

FROM THORSON

He said the source of this information is Mr. Justice J. T. Thorson, president of the Exchequer Court of Canada and an outspoken opponent of nuclear weapons for Canadian forces. Mr. Justice Thorson "was not far removed from the ear of the Liberal party."

The Conservative leader also challenged Prime Minister Pearson to say whether the United States is trying to store air-to-air missiles on U.S.-leased bases in Canada and whether negotiations to this end are under way.

RIGHT TO KNOW

Canadian people had a right to know whether Canada's defence responsibilities had been intensified in recent weeks by the "coming and goings" between Washington and Ottawa.

Mr. Diefenbaker contended that Canada should not be required to contribute more to NATO than it already is doing. No other country, except the United States, has contributed

Discussions Exploratory

OTTAWA (CP) — The government issued a non-committal statement Thursday night on its discussions with special American envoy Livingston Merchant on a proposed NATO seaborne strategic nuclear force.

The statement said: "These conversations were exploratory only. No commitments of any sort were involved."

Pope John Buried In Basilica

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Roman Catholic Church buried Pope John XXIII, the peasant's son who gave Christendom a new urge for unity and love, in St. Peter's Basilica Thursday night. See also Page 3.

The private ceremony came after two days of public viewing of the body, which the Vatican said drew 2,000,000 mourners.

To give a glimpse to those in St. Peter's Square who could not get in, the body was borne briefly from the basilica just before the burial.

TRIPLE COFFIN

The 81-year-old pontiff was laid to rest in a triple coffin of walnut, lead and cypress in a grotto he himself selected two years ago.

However, his last will and testament, disclosed by the Vatican press office Thursday, expressed hope that his remains eventually would be transferred to the Lateran Palace adjoining the cathedral of St. John Lateran, his see as bishop of Rome.

Clean Up Vernon

Army Will Search For Vintage Bombs

VERNON (CP) — The army will conduct a full-scale search for Second World War vintage bombs this fall in the Vernon area where two Scouts met death in a mortar-bomb explosion in March, it was announced today.

The announcement was made by Brig. E. D. Danby, commanding officer of B.C. headquarters area of the army, to Mayor Bruce Cousins following discovery of yet another high-explosive bomb.

The latest find was made Tuesday night by Vernon prep school teacher Douglas Bulwer on the edge of nearby Coldstream Creek while on a hike with his class. Army demolition experts said the bomb was still live and could have blown up if struck.

The brigadier also said a team of army officers will start this week a series of lectures in Vernon and district schools on bombs, their construction and how to detect them. Students would be shown some of the bombs found in the area.

Warning "proceed at your own risk" signs informing the public of the former training areas also would be erected.

He'll Meet Mac

Under heavy British urging, President Kennedy was reported Thursday night to have decided to meet with Prime Minister Macmillan at the end of this month during Kennedy's European trip. Announcement is expected to be made within the next few days.

Taxes Could Go Up or Down

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Gordon will deliver his budget speech in the Commons Thursday, June 13.

★ ★ ★

Canadians then will find out how he proposes to fit Liberal government economic programs into what — barring major tax increases — seems bound to be another budgetary deficit.

As already announced, government spending estimates for the current fiscal year are up five per cent to $6,545,504,515. This is millions more than the expanding economy will produce in tax yields at present rates.

The Canadian Tax Foundation already has predicted a 1963-64 deficit of at least $800,000,000. This would follow hard on the heels of a 1962-63 deficit expected to be around $570,000,000.

There is even a chance of taxes going up, Prime Minister Pearson said at one point during the election campaign.

"There might have to be decisions taken in the field of taxation with a view to putting our affairs in order, in view of the unbalanced state of our economy, which would not make a government very popular in the short term.

★ ★ ★

"It might also be possible, and this is the reverse side of the coin, to cut taxes in certain fields in certain economic situations for the stimulation of the economy."

Boy's Death Investigated

VANCOUVER (CP) — Homicide detectives were called in Thursday night to investigate the death of a six-month-old boy.

The boy's mother told them the tot fell against a coffee table. He was dead on arrival at hospital. Police would release no names.

A-Arms Supported By Anglican Synod

ARCHBISHOP CLARK
. . . opposed by Synod

TORONTO (UPI) — Anglican clergymen Thursday supported nuclear weapons for Canada's armed forces.

The stand was in direct opposition to that taken by the Anglican primate of Canada, Most Rev. Howard Clark, who favored equipping Canadian forces with conventional weapons only.

★ ★ ★

Delegates to the Toronto diocesan synod overwhelmingly voted down a resolution by Rev. J. E. Adam of Peterborough similar to that proposed by the primate.

Adam originally suggested that the synod endorse the primate's anti-nuclear stand, but later changed the wording to read—"To save anyone the embarrassment of seeming at odds with the primate."

Scandal Not Ended in U.K.

LONDON (AP)—The turbulent love life of a beautiful redhead rocked Prime Minister Macmillan and his government Thursday. There were demands for yet another investigation of Britain's security services.

The storm centred on War Minister John Profumo who resigned Wednesday, admitting he lied when he said he had not had improper relations with model Christine Keeler, 22.

Miss Keeler's roommate said Thursday that often when Profumo went out the apartment door, a Soviet naval attache walked in.

Lord Lambton, a Conservative MP, said he had twice warned authorities of Profumo's association with Miss Keeler. Writing in the Evening Standard, Lambton said Profumo's sensational resignation as war secretary will not end the story.

Lambton's title is only a courtesy given him as the son of the Earl of Durham. He is not a peer and consequently is eligible to sit in the Commons from which peers are barred.

It seemed certain Macmillan will face considerable criticism from within his own Conservative party.

Profumo resigned in a letter confessing that he lied to the House of Commons to cover his illicit association with Miss Keeler.

The Russian on Christine's visiting list was Capt. Eugene Ivanov, an assistant naval attache who played the social circuit so cheerfully that Labor party politicians warned security about him.

Marilyn Rice Davies, an 18-year-old girl who shared a West End apartment with Christine, says in The Daily Sketch that she had been questioned by Scotland Yard men about what went on there.

He has since been called home to Moscow.

★ ★ ★

The Jamaican, Aloysius Lin-
